Okinawa Japs Fight to Death

By HAMILTON W. FARON

GUAM, June 8 (AP)—American troops plunged today into the final battle for Okinawa, with every expectation of having to use grenades in hand-to-hand combat and to call upon flame-throwing tanks before this bloody doorstep to Japan could be called secure.

Jap remnants of smashed Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru line—possibly 20,000 troops—were cut into two separate groups but both were well entrenched.

One was squeezed between the Sixth and First Marine Divisions when the latter advanced 900 yards yesterday to within 300 yards of the west coast, north of Itoman. This maneuver cut off Oroko peninsula.

The second was well entrenched in the Yaeju-Dake heights, an escarpment rising to 450 feet in the center and stretching from Itoman to Hanagusuku on the eastern coast.

In both sectors, the Japs were defending their positions with intense machinegun and mortar fire.

Although the enemy position was hopeless—Tokyo radio itself said so in effect—the Japs could hold out several days and make the battle for Okinawa even costlier than it has been.

Preparing the Jap populace for news of the loss of the island—only 325 miles from the Japanese homeland—Tokyo continued:

"No one can deny that the fighting on Okinawa will have a great effect on the entire war. It goes without saying that the cause of the current Okinawa war situation is the widening difference in the fighting strength of both sides."

Tokyo blamed much of its troubles on its "very difficult supply situation since the enemy landed, we were forced to fight virtually with only troop strength on hand and the ammunition on hand."

After earlier having quoted two Domei (Japanese) news agency correspondents as attributing defeat on Okinawa to failure of kamikaze (suicide) aerial assaults on naval forces off the island, Tokyo blatantly asserted:

"We have destroyed 566 enemy vessels, counting only those announced by Imperial headquarters. The enemy naval task force has been completely worn out."

Japs on Okinawa have the benefit of good defensive terrain. On Oroku peninsula—site of U. S. captured Naha airfield—they are dug into caves and pillboxes.

Maj. Gen. Del Valle's First Division leathernecks cut off Oroku peninsula when they advanced 900 yards to within sight of the west coast. Advance elements of this division and of Maj. Gen. Shepherd's Sixth Marine Division were pressing from opposite directions on the Japs in the Oroku pocket.

Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Infantry and Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry Divisions met intense machinegun and mortar fire as they closed in on the Yaejudake heights.

Domei said Suzuki's cabinet during its two months' tenure has done its utmost, but that "with the enemy's air raids due to be intensified" there "is need for further strong measures," and no time for the delay necessitated by obtaining Diet approval.

The need for "further strong measures," Domei said, applies to "munitions production, transportation and communications, finances, food production and the rehabilitation of war-ravaged areas."

JAPS RETREAT IN BURMA

CALCUTTA, June 8 (AP)—Japanese troops in southern Burma have withdrawn from strong prepared positions at milestone 18 on the Toungoo-Mawchi road toward Thailand, and pursuing British troops have driven ahead slowly, a southeast Asia communique announced today.

BRINGS HOME SOUVENIRS—Displaying his war trophies, garnered from the European war fronts, Pvt. John P. Crouch, Ft. Wayne, Ind., arrives in New York aboard a troop transport. He was captured by the Nazis on D-Day and interned in Germany until advancing Allied troops released him to take part in the final days of fighting.

Japan to Seize Excess Profits

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8 (AP)—Rule of Japan by imperial decree without sanction of the Diet was advocated today by the government controlled Domei news agency, which also announced a new set of industrial controls issued by Premier Kantaro Suzuki, including seizure of all excess profits.

The new industrial regulations will effect "the readjustment of all important industries with particular emphasis on aircraft production."

They are the framework of a "basic plan," Domei explained, "to cope with the new situation arising from the possibility of waging a decisive war in Japan proper."

The excess profits decree was referred to as a step "indicating a further advance of government policy toward the nationalization of enterprises."

The regulations will be carried out "forcibly if necessary."

The proposal of rule by imperial decree from the semiofficial government mouthpiece and the new regulations, following a day of extraordinary political activity by Suzuki, indicate possibly revolutionary and government changes.

Domei said Suzuki's cabinet during its two months' tenure has done its utmost, but that "with the enemy's air raids due to be intensified" there "is need for further strong measures," and no

Putzi No Criminal

LONDON, June 8 (INS)—Sir Donald Somervell, British home secretary told Commons today Ernst "Putzi" Hanfstangel, erstwhile Harvard student and pianist who formerly amused Adolf Hitler by playing his favorite selections, is not a war criminal.

"Putzi" is not listed either on Britain's war criminal list nor that of the Allied war crimes commission. Hanfstangel is interned at the Isle of Man.

Arabs Warn France To Withdraw Troops

By FRED KRIEG

CAIRO, June 8 (AP)—The Council of the Arab League has informed France in blunt terms that the Arab states will meet force with force in the Levant, and has told the French to get their troops out of Syria and Lebanon immediately.

A communique of the council, which has been considering the Levantine crisis, announced that measures were being put into effect "to resist French aggression," and laid the blame for "assassination, destruction and other losses which occurred in both countries" directly on France.

Supporting the demand of Syria and Lebanon for "immediate evacuation of French troops," the communique said retention of French soldiers in the two countries "is contradictory to the rights, sovereignty and independence which have been acknowledged in both countries," and would cause "permanent tension in the relations of France and the Arab republics."

This tension, it added, "extends to the rest of the Arab country, thus embarrassing the war effort against Japan."

(The communique was issued a short time after the French government, in a diplomatic countermove seen as embarrassing to Britain, formally invited the United States, Britain, Russia and China to participate in a five-power discussion of the Middle East question. In Washington, President Truman said he did not favor a Big Five meeting on the Syrian disputes.)

Japs May Lose 2 U. S. Air Bases

CHUNGKING, June 8 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced today that Chinese forces had fought their way into the northern suburbs of Liuchow and an army spokesman declared the recapture of that former U. S. air base site in Kwangsi province appeared probable.

He estimated that approximately 200,000 Japanese troops in Burma, Thailand, Indo-China and Malaya had been virtually isolated by the Chinese offensive in Kwangsi province.

Nazi Jet Plane Inventor Taken

PARIS, June 8 (AP)—Heinrich Bernhard Oelerich, leading German aircraft inventor, was in Allied hands today and supreme headquarters said he had offered his jet plane secrets and designs to the American Army.

Oelerich's surrender to U. S. military government authorities was announced yesterday by headquarters, which said the inventor had designed and produced the ME-262 jet fighter and improved the ME-109, ME-110 and FW-190 for the Luftwaffe.

200 Planes Smash Jap Suicide Bases

GUAM, June 8 (AP)—Successive waves of carrier planes raided suicide air bases in southern Japan today and Superforts planted mines in inland waters. Tokyo reported shortly after warning Japanese "medium and small size cities" would be pounded by B-29's just as major cities have been.

The carrier strike by 200 aircraft was the third reported raid in as many days on air fields of Kyushu, southernmost island of Japan.

Tokyo said the raiders struck in waves of 30 or 40 planes, concentrating on Kanoya and other air bases near the southern tip of Kyushu, 325 miles north of Okinawa, and mining the western entrance to the inland sea.

Opposes Churchill In Own District

LONDON, June 8 (INS)—The Hon. William Douglas-Home, who was cashiered out of the British royal armored corps, announced today he would contest Prime Minister Churchill's constituency of Woodford in the coming general elections.

The Liberal and Labor parties previously had announced they would not oppose Churchill in his home constituency.

NAZI ENVOY OUT

LONDON, June 8 (INS)—The Swiss radio reported today the Vatican has informed the German ambassador to the Holy See that it considers his mission there terminated.

The German envoy, Fritz von Weizsaecker, was told the decision was based on the fact there no longer was an independent German state, the broadcast said.

Yanks Capture Jap Supply Base on Luzon

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, June 8 (AP)—American infantrymen advancing toward the last-stand Jap forces in Cagayan valley of the northern Philippines, yesterday captured Bayombong, prewar city on northern Luzon which the Jap turned into a supply base.

The U. S. 37th Division found no strong Jap defenses in Bayombong, which had a prewar population of 12,000, although they killed 119 Japanese in a seven-mile advance and knocked out two flame-throwing tanks. These were believed to be the first such Nipponese tanks encountered in the Southwest Pacific.

Patrols pressed up the fertile Cagayan valley toward Sorano, a town of 17,000 population before the war.

In central Luzon mountain fighting through the Manila watershed, the 38th Division captured two mountain crests, by-passed a third and reached the base of a fourth peak.

On Mindanao Island the 24th Division broke a pocket of Jap resistance near Tagakpan village, just off Davao gulf, and advanced a mile up the Taloma river. This was one of several spearheads driving the Davao garrison back into the mountains, trapped between the U. S. 24th and 31st Divisions.

Savage air blows against British North Borneo were reported in the wake of Gen. MacArthur's conference with Gen. Joseph Stilwell.

U. S. 13th Air Force Liberators dumped 225 tons of bombs on Borneo targets Wednesday.

Seventh Fleet and Fifth Air Force bombers bombed Formosa, setting numerous fires in the Taito airdrome area on the east coast and sank or damaged ten ships in China Sea waters to the south.

Medford Major Shangri-La Victim

(Picture on Page 20)

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea, June 8—Eight Army officers, including a former Medford school teacher, and 12 enlisted personnel, seven of them WACs, were named today by the Far East Air Forces as victims of the crash of a transport plane in New Guinea's hidden "Shangri-La" valley.

Only three survived the wrecking of the huge C-47 on a 13,000-foot mountain in the remote section 150 miles southwest of Hollandia and paratroopers were hacking out an airstrip to effect the rescue of the trio, two Army airmen and a WAC corporal.

Maj. Nicholson

The Medford victim was Maj. George H. Nicholson of Emerald st., son of Mrs. Margaret G. Nicholson, a member of the Medford school committee.

The plane crash occurred May 13, apparently as a result of terrific down drafts of air in the region of the Oranje mountains.

Eight Filipino paratroopers and a medical assistant have been parachuted to effect the rescue. The plan is to build the landing site, send in the glider, then jerk it into the air with a low-flying C-47 by means of a grab-line.

The trio are in good spirits. Food and medical supplies are dropped to them.

The surviving trio are WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, daughter of Patrick J. Hastings, Oswego, N. Y.; Lt. John B. McCollom, Trenton, Mo., and Sgt. Kenneth W. Decker, Kelso, Wash.

Decker was the most seriously injured. His deep back wounds were treated with boracic acid dropped from a plane. McCollom suffered only a bruised head.

The Filipinos who parachuted to the rescue were veterans of Bataan. They carried flashlights and jewelry as gifts to obtain aid from the natives. One village is close to the wreck and visiting tribesmen have cooked swet potatoes for the survivors.

In the valley an estimated 50,000 to 100,000 natives live in walled communities, completely shut off from the world outside by jungle and mountain areas largely unexplored.

Apparently warring on each other, the walled communities keep sentinels atop all posts. They till fertile valley extensively, terrace the mountain slopes and raise enormous hogs.

May 16, the wreckage was spotted high on the mountain wall and the two men and the woman could be seen alive near the burned fuselage.

"We are all right," one survivor assured after a walkie-talkie was dropped. "Just keep sending us supplies."

Lt. McCollom said the explosion and bright glare of the burning plane attracted natives from the valley.

"I am fine and enjoying it all," said WAC Hastings in a clear firm voice over the walkie-talkie.

The 100-pound corporal wore regulation WAC slacks.

Maj. Nicholson, who was 34, was graduated from Boston College in 1932 and received ad-

Winchell's Daughter To Ask Annulment

WALDA WINCHELL LAWLESS AND HUSBAND

Unaware Columnist Walter Winchell had announced that his daughter, Walda, 18, planned to seek an annulment of her surprise marriage last Tuesday to her son, William, 28-year-old art student, Mrs. James Lawless of Elm st., Cambridge, admitted today she was stunned by the news.

Mrs. Lawless told the Boston American she was expecting her son and his bride to visit her home today.

"I didn't know anything about the announcement," Lawless' mother said. "So far as I knew, I thought everything was okay. I haven't heard a word from them since they called to tell about the wedding Tuesday night.

"I don't know what to think. They were to come to see me today. That's all I know. When they telephoned, they didn't say where they were married or who married them. My son is in New York. If they say now it's a mistake, well, it's their business now and it's up to them."

During the telephone conversations Tuesday night, Mrs. Lawless said, Walda declared she looked forward to "a long visit" with her.

Regarding Winchell's announcement of an impending annulment, Mrs. Lawless remarked:

"My son is just a poor boy, working like others. Walda has a rich father. Perhaps that had something to do with it, but that is pure conjecture on my part.

"I'm going to listen to Winchell on the radio next Sunday, as usual," she added, "and perhaps there will be more of an explanation then."

In Hollywood, Winchell announced his daughter had phoned him from New York to inform him of her annulment plans.

"We made a mistake and after a heart to heart talk decided to call it off," Winchell quoted her as saying.

On that score, Mrs. Lawless observed:

"They should have had the heart to heart talk before they were married. At any rate, I don't think Winchell should have made the announcement so soon. If the children were given a chance I think they might have worked it out."

Winchell said his daughter and Lawless, 28, had never lived together and she would ask the annulment in New York where she is appearing in the Broadway production "Dark of the Moon."

When his daughter called him, Winchell said he asked her, "Honey, what's the matter? Isn't he a nice young man? Don't you think you ought to give it a try to see if it won't work out?"

Winchell said his daughter told him Lawless was "a very nice boy" but they had had a long heart-to-heart talk and both realized their marriage was a mistake.

Wilson Given 2d Life Term

John (Limey Wilson and Francis J. Murray, both of Charlestown, today were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Belle Hanson in the South End, Feb. 18, 1944.

Both are now doing life for the slaying of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 84-year-old Charlestown widow, in 1942.

Wilson first refused to plead to the second degree murder charge today but changed his mind and pleaded guilty as Murray had done, before Judge Brown in superior court. Judge Brown had gone when Wilson decided to plead, so the defendant was taken before Judge Donahue, who pronounced the sentence.

MRS. MARION LANGFORD
Issues Statement

Murder on Park Avenue

Widow's Story; Attends Funeral

NEW YORK, June 8—Elderly and wealthy Mrs. Marion Langford, widow of the slain textile executive Albert E. Langford, broke her three-day silence in the Park avenue murder mystery today with a lengthy statement in which she said of herself: "She spent her money the way she wanted to, which perhaps was foolish, but she did."

Langford, 63, was shot to death Monday night in the vestibule of his Park ave apartment after two men, who asked to see his wife, failed to gain admittance.

In her statement, Mrs. Langford, 70, took issue with police assertions, which said she was a heavy loser at bridge clubs where high stakes changed hands and in card games at her home.

"Mrs. Langford had never run card games in her life and never played in blackjack games and never went to night clubs in the last five years, except for dinner," her statement said.

In her statement Mrs. Langford switched frequently from the first person to the third person. She isued the statement through her husband's brother, Howard.

"Mrs. Langford never associated with Broadwayites and she never had disreputable people in her house," the statement added.

Mrs. Langford recounted how she met her husband 18 years ago and said: "We were very happy."

She touched upon her association with Reed Lawton, a singer, on whom police quoted her as saying she spent more than $100,000 furthering his career.

"Mrs. Langford was not a night club frequenter, except when Mr. Lawton and she tried to sponsor an engagement," the statement said.

In speaking of her husband, Mrs. Langford said "he was sitting on the chair talking to me and I was lying on the bed reading"—an apparent reference to their situation just before the men who shot her husband sought admittance to the apartment.

She denied police reports she had taken long trips with Lawton and other men, and said: "Mrs. Langford has never traveled with any man alone in her life. She has made her trips with her chauffeur and her chauffeur's wife and a chaperon."

Mrs. Langford went to the funeral home this afternoon to at-

Spooky Lady On Grave Only Sleeping Off Jag

ANDOVER, June 8—Anybody with a hangover on a Boston & Maine train passing St. Augustine's Cemetery had a pretty bad time of it this morning, because either the cemetarians had forgotten to bury a body, the rider thought—or it just wasn't there except in his imagination.

From the windows it looked like a woman in a black dress and red sweater arranged in death atop a a grave, wrists crossed formally and the only prop missing—a lily.

Railroad workers, who had no hangovers, were more sure of themselves and notified police. Patrolman James Lynch (no hangover, either) hastened bravely to the cemetery and shook into wakefulness a 68-year-old woman. Sitting up, she displayed no originality. She said:

"Where am I?"

When Lynch told her, she was a little abashed, but explained she lived with a family in Wakefield, had been in Boston last night "having a few drinks," and had boarded a late train for Wakefield and fallen asleep. Somebody must have ushered her off at Andover because she remembered only vaguely that she had walked a bit and then lain down to sleep.

Police put her on another train to Wakefield, hoping for the best.

Says GIs Tops

How does the American soldier compare with the Russian soldier?

Gen. Patton refused to compare their relative merits, but he had this to say about GI Joe:

"The American troops are as good as any on earth and I would not be afraid to face any other army with an American Army.

"American equipment in everything, and I mean not only weapons, but clothing down to shoe laces, was better than that of any other army."

Two Ships Bring 5230 More Veterans to Hub

Greeted by an ear-splitting cacophony of sirens, whistles, cheers and martial music, 5230 heroes of the victorious struggle against Nazism arrived at Commonwealth Pier today aboard two huge transports, the Argentina and the Mariposa.

The once-luxurious cruise ships were met in the outer harbor by Coast Guard and naval craft and escorted to dock as every vessel and factory whistle along the waterfront "let go" in a thrilling demonstration of welcome to the veterans jammed on every inch of deck space.

As the ships warped into berths, the 449th Army Service Force Band, directed by C. W. O. John J. Brice, struck up "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." GI's joined in a thunderous rendition.

The gleeful fighting men pelted thousands of relatives and friends with chocolate bars, foreign coins and confetti made from torn copies of the ship's newspapers.

Approximately 2234 wounded men were unable to join in the fun on deck but every porthole was filled with at least two grinning faces as the disabled men looked wide-eyed at their homeland after months of gruelling battle.

The Argentina tied up first and medical corpsmen immediately began removal of the stretcher cases, followed by the walking wounded. They were taken to trains and left for Camp Edward.

The first person off the Argentina was Lt. Priscilla M. Babbitt, of Greenfield, Army nurse overseas 36 months in England, France and Germany.

"I'm no story; talk to these wonderful boys", she told reporters. "I don't deserve any credit but they did a grand job and are entitled to all the credit".

She said she hoped to go to the Pacific after a short rest.

The two ships carried, in addition to the wounded, 775 men on rotation furlough 910 returning for discharge, and a large number of repatriated prisoners.

A liberated prisoner, PFC John S. Burek, 28, of 3 Lawrence rd., Chicopee, said he was forced to work on German railroads, repairing damage caused by American bombers.

"The Nazis were deathly afraid of our fliers and forced us to work on the tracks because the American[illegible] were strafing them almost all of the time. Eight of our men were killed by our own fliers that way," he said.

Burek was with the 17th Airborne Division and was captured during the German counteroffensive at Ardennes last December.

An East Boston man, PFC Nicholas Katsapy, 26, of 241 Prescott st., was wounded with the 103d Infantry Division. He laughed off questions about his experiences, declaring "all I'm interested in right now is becoming a civilian."

Pvt. Frederick Tenney, 30 Prospect st., Weymouth, was with the 26th Division at Hanau when he was shot in the right wrist. He said very few New Englanders were in the famed Yankee Division.

Sgt. Paul L. Pierre, 23, of Norfolk ave., Pawtucket, R. I., machine gunner with the 75th Infantry Division of the Ninth Army, was wounded during a bitter gun duel at Salm Chateau in the Ardennes area.

"We were trying to break up a sniper nest in the town and for more than an hour we swapped shots," Pierre said. "Five of the outfit were killed and there were only another fellow and myself left when the Germans quit."

The two vessels were manned by the War Shipping Administration for the Army Transportation Corps.

One of the litter patients, PFC Harry Siegal, 22, Howard ave., Roxbury, wore the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart with two clusters. He said he was a rifleman with the Ninth Infantry Division of the First Army for 18 months and was wounded three times.

BEAVER!—Wearing a full beard which he grew during six months as a Nazi prisoner of war, T-Sgt. Chester Mann of Jersey City stands on the pier with his buddies after arriving in Boston by transport. Theirs was one of two transports to arrive in Boston today.

Proud 'Hell on Wheels' Division Back After 2 Years

"Hell on Wheels" hit Boston today when the Second Armored Division, flushed with victories in Africa, Sicily, France, Luxembourg and Germany, arrived aboard a huge troopship after more than two years of pursuing Germans.

Proud of the swashbuckling nickname given their outfit, the heroes of three invasions and countless battles told of a forced march of 100 miles in 24 hours which brought from a German Panzer commander the exclamation:

"Gott un himmel! How many 2nd divisions are there? We know you were 100 miles away only yesterday."

S-Sgt. Leslie R. Perry, 37, Winter Harbor, Me., said the historic drive was made the day before Christmas, when the Germans broke through at Ardennes.

"We ran up against our old pals, the Second Panzer Division, that we had knicked apart at Carentan and their commander couldn't believe it was true when we captured him," Perry said.

The heroes who saved Liege, objective of the Nazi counter-attack, disclosed the job was done in disobedience of orders issued by British Field Marshal Montgomery, to whose outfit they were attached temporarily.

Perry said the Second was ordered to "contain" the enemy, but Maj. Gen. Millard Harmon, commanding the division, found the Germans were within three kilometers of cutting off Liege, so he ordered the unit to attack.

"The general was reprimanded for doing that, but that was washed off the books later," Perry said.

T-Sgt. George M. Silvia, 30, Court st., Plymouth, a tank retriever operator, declared the toughest opponents they ran up against were the Hitler Youths, boys only six to 12 years old.

"I'd rather run up against tanks any day than those little devils," Silvia said. "They cut telephone wires, slashed truck tires, and even knocked out tanks with a minature bazooka gun called a panzerfaust."

He told of seeing an eight-year-old boy lead a lad about six up to a parked American tank and, pointing to a spot on the huge tank, tell the youngster that was the place to aim at.

"They were devils, all right. They didn't know much arithmetic, maybe, but they gave us plenty of trouble," Silvia said.

Comparing equipment, the Second Division veterans claimed Nazi Tiger tanks "were really something and way ahead of our tanks."

Perry said the Americans did not have a tank equal to the Tiger until the war was over. He said it was a "beaut" and carried a 90-millimeter gun to outshoot the German 88-mm.

Sgt. Albert DiNatale, 26, of 72 Cherry st., Somerville, said the Germans had a tough time keeping their tanks going because of lack of fuel. He said he saw many tanks being towed and lots of horses were used.

Others in the group included T-4 Lancer Bennett, 28, of Amesbury, and Sgt. Eric C. Samuelson, 33, Georgetown, Ct.

Tons of Army Food in Big Fire

OAKLAND, Cal., June 8 (INS)—Tons of food and supplies destined for the Pacific war fronts were destroyed today in a six-alarm fire which swept a quarter of a mile long warehouse in Oakland's outer harbor.

The fire broke out at 10:45 a. m. and still was blazing at noon.

All downtown fire apparatus in Oakland sped to the scene. A stiff wind sent the flames mushrooming through the center section of the long warehouse.

Soldiers from Camp nKight, adjoining the outer harbor district, aided firemen.

5 Hurt in Car Crash at Roxbury

Five persons were injured today in a collision between two autos at Dale st. and Walnut ave., Roxbury, with two of them, Mrs. Helen McCulloch, 30, and Mrs. Grace Chesebro, 45, both of Wampatuck st., Quincy, being taken to City Hospital.

Slightly injured were Mrs. Louise Bastable, 24, Paul Gore st., Jamaica Plain; her son, Harold, 4, and Mrs. Helen Harris, 25, Lamartine st., Jamaica Plain.

A KISS FOR BROTHER—Lt. James Wyse of Charlestown kisses his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Wyse Sage, after rushing down the gangplank of the transport on which he and several thousand comrades returned from Europe. The ship was one of two which docked at Commonwealth Pier today bringing men home.

New War Secret Leaks Probed

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—State Department officials said today a whole series of cases involving leakage of secret information through unauthorized channels is under investigation.

Six persons, including two Far Eastern experts employed by the department and a naval intelligence officer, already are under arrest on charges of conspiracy to violate the espionage laws by improper use of restricted information.

Acting Secretary of State Grew told his news conference today that top officials in the department would continue to be privileged to divulge confidential information to correspondents as background matter.

It is merely a question of good judgment on the part of the individual official, he said.

Discharges for 250,000 in AEF

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 8 (AP)—Around 250,000 American soldiers in the European theater have adjusted service scores of 85 or more points and are eligible for discharge under the interim rating, Brig. Gen. Ralph B. Lovett, adjutant general, said today.

The number will be increased substantially when new campaign stars for the Ardennes and central Europe campaigns are awarded, he said.

Analysis of the scores, completed six days ahead of schedule, showed 218,178 ground and service force men and 36,361 air force men eligible.

The War Department soon will be able to select a final score low enough to release slightly under 2,000,000 men and retain approximately 7,000,000.

Lovett said 2250 WACS have scores equal to or above the needed 44. There were 7705 in the theater when the survey started.

HELD FOR ESPIONAGE—Emmanuel S. Larsen, John S. Service and Lt. Andrew Roth are shown after arrest by FBI agents as espionage agents. FBI officials say the three men trafficked in secret State Department documents which were later published in the magazine Amerasia to support its pro-Communist line in China and to attack the Chungking government.

Cathedral Throng Sees Hub Bishop Consecrated

On the feast day of the Sacred Heart, the Most Rev. Louis F. Kelleher, D. D., was consecrated auxiliary bishop of Boston by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing today at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in impressive, centuries-old ritual of the Catholic Church.

BISHOP LOUIS F. KELLEHER, ARCHBISHOP CUSHING
Solemn Ceremonies Attend Consecration at Cathedral

The newly consecrated bishop's brother and his six sisters were seated in a front pew of the Cathedral, which was thronged with ranking leaders of the clergy, the armed services and the city and state and with faithful from various parishes in which he has served.

Abp. Francis J. Spellman of New York served as senior assistant consecrator and Bishop Edward F. Ryan of Burlington, Vt., was junior consecrator.

The sermon was delivered by the Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy, bishop of San Diego and a classmate of Bishop Kelleher, who paid tribute to the character of the new bishop and to the qualities which had marked bishops of the church through the centuries.

The ceremonies opened with the reading of the Apostolic Mandate in Latin and English by the Rt. Rev. Jeremiah S. Minihan, chancellor of the archdiocese, and the canonical examination of the new bishop by Abp. Cushing.

This was followed by the celebration of the pontifical mass, after Bishop Kelleher had been garbed in full pontifical vestments.

The mass was interrupted after the gradual for the actual ceremony of consecration. As the Litany of the Saints was sung, Bishop Kelleher lay prostrate before the altar and three times the archbishop pronounced a blessing over the prone form.

The new bishop then knelt before Abp. Cushing and the co-consecrators and the three prelates placed both their hands on his head as the book of gospels was placed on his shoulders.

After the imposition of hands, the archbishop sang the consecration preface, the head and hands of the new bishop were anointed and he was presented with the instruments of his office. The crosier, or pastoral staff, was the gift of pupils of St. Catherine of Genoa school, Somerville.

After the archbishop gave the pontifical blessing, the new bishop was enthroned and presented to the people, to whom he gave his first blessing. He will celebrate his first pontifical mass in his own parish at St. Catherine's at 10 a. m. Sunday.

Today's consecration was the second in Massachusetts in two days and most of the hierarchy came to Boston from Fall River where they participated yesterday at the installation of the Most Rev. James L. Connolly as coadjutor to Bishop James E. Cassidy of Fall River.

Among those at the Cathedral rites today were Bishop Henry J. O'Brien of Hartford; Bishop John F. O'Hara, G. S. G., of Buffalo; Bishop Matthew F. Brady of Manchester, N. H.; Bishop Gerald T. Bergen of Des Moines, Ia.; Bishop Francis P. Keough of Providence; Bishop Daniel F. Desmond of Alexandria, La.; Bishop Thomas A. Emmet, S. J., of Jamaica, B. W. I., and the Rev. James E. Walsh, M. M., superior general of the Maryknoll Mission Order, Maryknoll, N. Y.

Many priests serving as assistants to the consecrators were close friends of Bishop-elect Kelleher for many years.

Step Right Up Folks, Egg Line on Right

A Boston weary of the meat shortage but almost resigned to it by virtue of weeks of compulsory stinting took another blow in the bread basket today when the first egg line materialized in Fulton st.

All week eggs had been doled out three or six to a customer. Today the scarcity became intensified and the egg line, like the meat line and the poultry line, became a part of contemporary American living.

Word an egg line was forming in Fulton st. caused scores to leave their places in the poultry line in Fulton pl. and scurry around the corner to join the standees.

The meat situation showed no improvement over its status for the past seven weeks. Householders who got any were regarded as lucky indeed. Two establishments in North st. upon which most of the shoppers had been depending are now closed. Lines of 100 to 150 persons each were trying their luck this morning at two other market district places.

Standing in one meat line was a 22-year-old sailor, with his mother. On his breast were ribbons which should have entitled him to a succulent steak anywhere in the United States. He wore ribbons representing the Air Medal, the Asiatic Medal and the Philippines Liberation Medal, as well as a ribbon denoting service in the Atlantic theater. He also wore five Battle Stars.

He was home on a 30-day leave but he didn't know whether he was going to have meat to eat, nor did his mother, who wanted to fill him full of home cooking. The sailor said, "I'm just going to stay in this line until I find out whether I can get meat or not. I'd certainly like some."

Everybody hoped he would get it but no one was betting on it.

Confronting food shoppers in the Quincy Market were signs which now have become commonplace—"No retail sales"—"No poultry today."

But there were visible behind the counters of many stalls wrapped parcels of meat being held for the arrival of customers who had placed their orders in advance.

Only one stall was selling beef to retail patrons. The others were offering the usual processed meats.

And most of the customers had reached the point where a juicy steak was only a memory.

BOOSTS FUGITIVE'S TERM

William Grinnell, 24, Mountain ave., Revere, who escaped from Deer Island last April 12 after serving less than a month of two concurrent one-year terms, was given an additional month to be served on completion of the original sentences by Judge Brown today in Suffolk Superior court.

465 Patton Kin

There'll be no scarcity of familiar faces for Gen. Patton when the Third Army leader arrives in Los Angeles for a visit with Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle.

No less than 465 of Patton's relatives—many by marriage, but all relatives nonetheless—have been invited to tomorrow night's gala function there, including his sister, Miss Anne Wilson Patton.

A native of suburban San Gabriel, the general will find many of the souvenirs and relics of his childhood at his old home there.

Bradford O. K's Anti-Bias Board

Urging establishment of a fair employment practices commission in Massachusetts, Atty. Charles P. Curtis quoted Lt. Gov. Bradford today as stating there was "every reason to fear a wave of discrimination and bias" as an aftermath of the war.

The Ipswich attorney, one of the original petitioners for such legislation, read to the House committee on ways and means a letter he had received from Bradford.

"The only question is the difficult, practical one of devising a means of fighting the evil effectively without creating new sources of friction in the process," the letter said.

The measure before the committee is a re-draft on administration of several anti-discrimination measures.

Under its terms the orders of the commission would be enforced by the superior court but the commission itself would have the power to summons witnesses and hold hearings.

Regional Director Edward Lawson of the Fair Employment Practices Commission said his organization would end its wrok June 30 and it was essential that the State prepare some method of handling discrimination complaints.

A letter from the Rev. John S. Sexton, editor of the Pilot, pledging the support of Archbishop Cushing for the legislation, was filed with the committee.

Also recorded in favor were State American Legion Com. Thomas F. Mackey and representatives of the AFL and CIO.

MRS. RUTH M. DREW
Divorces Pigeon-Fancier

Gets 3 Months In Auto Case

Pleading guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after causing personal injury, Thomas E. Joyce, 40, Tyler st., Atlantic, was given three months in jail by Judge Brown today in Suffolk Superior court but execution was deferred for three months so he could pay his debts.

Joyce also pleaded guilty to charges of driving to endanger and operating a taxicab without a hackney license but these were placed on file.

Joyce was arrested as a result of an accident in which George Lynch, 68, of D st., South Boston, was struck and injured last April 18. Joyce picked up the injured man and drove him to a point near City Hospital, then helped him from the car, being fearful of trouble over driving the cab without a license.

He Keeps Pigeons But Loses Wife

A pigeon-fancier since boyhood, her husband kept his birds and gave her the bird, Mrs. Ruth M. Drew, of Hyde Park ave., Hyde Park, complained today in winning a Suffolk Probate court divorce from Curtis E. Drew, Mt. Hope st., Hyde Park.

After their marriage in November, 1938, she told Judge Mahoney, they went to live with his parents, making a total of nine persons living in a six-room apartment.

Despite her pleas that they move to their own home, he refused, she said, because it would mean leaving his pigeons behind. She finally left him, taking her daughter, Sandra, 5.

Mrs. Mary E. Chapman, Commonwealth ave., was divorced after she testified her husband was continually in trouble with the Army because of going AWOL.

Mrs. Esther M. Gilleran testified her coast guardsman husband, Lt. Clarence J. Gilleran, often came home with lipstick on his handkerchief and slapped her when she questioned him. She was given a decree and the right to resume her maiden name of Morgan.

Mrs. Josephine E. Terruso's marriage to Castrenzi G. Terruso, of Mallard st., Dorchester, was annulled.

Uncle Sam 'Fades' Corporal

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Negro corporal probably never figured on that one hot last roll of the Treasury Department.

The story worked its way out of Australia through the Treasury experts today.

Things were running dull Down Under, so the story goes, and a bunch of the boys were on bended knee. The dancing dice with their tricky dots were rolling out.

When the unnamed colored corporal got up, he dusted off his knees, tried to find pockets for $38,000. Later, he went to a fiscal officer and sent the money back to Harlem, for deposit to his bank account.

At that point, the Treasury declared itself in, faded one colored corporal for $18,000 in income tax and left him a measley $20,000 to come home to.

Adopted Girl's Woes Mount

Pawn in an adoption battle more than a year ago, 4½-year-old Marie Ann Lallis again faced an uncertain future today as a result of a divorce action between her foster parents.

Charging cruel and abusive treatment, her foster mother, Mrs. Dorothy E. Johnson, Winthrop, is seeking a divorce from George H. Johnson, Burroughs st., Jamaica Plain. The couple were given the child in adoption in March, 1944, after a court battle with her mother, Mrs. Adele Lallis of Cambridge, who was unable to care for the girl.

Before Judge Wilson today, Johnson moved for dismissal of the divorce action on the ground his wife had failed to answer his interrogatories.

He also asked modification or vacating of a temporary order that he support her and the adopted child.

Judge Wilson said he would give the wife one week to file answers to the interrogatories and, if she failed, would dismiss her petition.

Soldiers' Trials for Hospital Abuse Told

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Testimony several soldiers have been court-martialed for abusing patients in a veterans' hospital at Northport, N. Y., developed today during a House committee investigation of the Veterans' Administration.

In addition, seven civilian employes have been fired or quit because of the investigation. Their cases have been placed with the United States attorney in Brooklyn.

Testimony was presented by Col. John H. Baird, assistant medical supervisor of the Veterans' Administration, and the agency's solicitor, Edward Odom. It was developed through questioning by Rep. Kearney (R.) of New York, a member of the committee.

Odom told the committee he believed 15 soldiers had been court-martialed and 13 convicted for abusing patients. In his letter to the Brooklyn district attorney he said there was evidence of "rather severe abuse of patients by soldiers."

Kearney had asked if he knew whether "five civilian employes are facing criminal assault charges" as a result of their treatment of patients in the Northport mental hospital.

Baird read Odom's letter to the Brooklyn prosecutor, listing the names of seven employes.

Committee members questioned Baird closely about disciplinary action against doctors in charge of wards where alleged brutalities occurred. But Baird said only that the investigation had not been completed.

Rep. Rogers (R.) of Massachusetts tried unsuccessfully to bring representatives of a veterans' group from this war before the committee to testify. At first Chairman Rankin (D.) of Mississippi ruled her motion out of order, and later it was tabled, 10 to 1.

Soviet Accord Points Parley To Success

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8 (AP)—Small nation acceptance of a Big Five veto voting formula for a World Security Council today appeared certain. A successful end of the United Nations conference is in sight.

Russia's dramatic acceptance of a statement that the big power veto could not be used to block discussion of any case presented to the council broke a week-old deadlock and put the conference over the hill.

Ten days to two weeks more of committee work and speech-making remain to get the United Nations charter in final shape for signing, but no more major issues are on the horizon.

It took the combined efforts of Premier Stalin, Harry Hopkins, who was then in Moscow, and Secretary of State Stettinius, who acted with President Truman's approval, to end the deadlock.

Hopkins, on instructions from Stettinius, asked Stalin to reconsider Soviet insistence that any of the Big Five could veto even discussion in the peace-enforcement council of an international dispute. The other four major powers did not want a single veto vote to block round-table talk.

Stalin reversed the Soviet position, acting, according to his spokesman here, in the interest of unanimity and to speed the conference to success.

French Ask Slice Of 2 Reich Zones

By WES GALLAGHER

PARIS, June 8 (AP)—The United States and Britain were reported today attempting to carve out a French zone of occupation in Germany at the expense of their own zones.

France was said by an authoritative informant to be pressing for inclusion in her zone of Cologne, which now is in the British area, and Frankfurt, which is in the American and is the site of Gen. Eisenhower's advance headquarters. Moreover, the French would like the Saar Basin, originally included in the American zone.

Bonomi Resigns As Italy's Premier

ROME, June 8 (INS)—Premier Bonomi resigned today at a special meeting of the Italian cabinet, despite protest of his ministers.

The resignation followed a report last night that Bonomi had made it clear that in view of the interminable discussions on formation of a new government he no longer felt any obligation to await formation of a different cabinet before resigning.

Six parties are involved in the protracted discussions.

Biggest Postwar Reich Relief Is End of Bombing

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

WEIMAR, Germany, June 8 (AP)—Today, one month after V-E Day, the preponderant feeling among German people of all classes to whom I have talked, is one of relief that the bombing, shooting and killing—especially the bombing—is over.

In the month since unconditional surrender I have traveled extensively through Germany from Berchtesgaden to Flensburg, through territories occupied by the Seventh American, First French, Third, First and Ninth American and Second British armies and talked to countless people.

Everywhere I found the situation relaxed. Occupation troops live side by side with the German people, apparently without untoward incidents. "Thank God, the shooting is over!" is the unanimous first reaction.

The next is one of setting their own houses in order again, at the same time doing such compulsory labor as occupation troops demand. Everywhere hausfraus are scrubbing and removing debris.

With millions of soldiers still in captivity, women dominate the scene everywhere. They seem to relish insistence of the military government that children are again the responsibility of parents. The Hitler youth management took this authority out of their hands and encouraged resistance to parental authority. Now the kids must again obey or else.

Very few Germans seem worried about politics. They are concerned about what they can eat tomorrow and the next day and especially next winter. Western Allied newscasts, as well as military government-sponsored German news sheets keep emphasizing that no food may be expected from the Allies—the Germans must pull themselves out by their own bootstraps.

Those with radios eagerly listen to the Soviet-controlled Berlin broadcasting station. There the story is different. Emphasis is laid on a plentitude of food, amusements for the Berlin population and the kindness of the Russian occupation forces.

The reaction is two-fold. It cannot be denied there is much whispering to the effect "the Russians treat us better than the western powers." On the other hand, just as many live in horror lest sections of Germany now under western control be turned over to the Russians for occupation.

In the countryside one sees farmhands, chiefly women, busy everywhere. The Germans are fully conscious of the importance of food raising. Many mayors, working under MG appointment, assign returning soldiers to farm work.

The average German used to to authority now accepts the Allied authority and tries to fit himself into the new scheme of things. Htler streets are being renamed. Just how far the spiritual de-Nazification of the German people has gone is difficult to estimate.

Navy's Pacific Casualties Up 3347 in Week

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Army and Navy combat casualties during the war reached 1,012,049 today, an increase of 9162 in the past week.

The Army total of 895,834 represented names reported here through May 30 and reflected actual fighting through the early part of May—presumably up to about the time the war against Germany ended.

The Navy casualties amounted to 116,215, a rise of 3347 in the last week indicating the more intense fighting in the Pacific.

The breakdown on Army casualties as reported today by Secretary Stimson and corresponding figures for last week:

Killed, 183,670 and 183,563; wounded, 556,844 and 553,088; missing, 46,747 and 52,746; prisoners, 106,573 and 100,622.

Most of the increase in the prisoner total apparently represented shifts from the missing column. Of the wounded, Stimson said, 317,626 have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy: Killed, 41,503 and 43,534; wounded, 56,767 and 51,380; missing, 10,705 and 10,709; prisoners, 4240 and 4245.

$20,000 Pay Bill Before Congress

WASHINGTON, June 8 (INS) Sen. Overton (D) of Louisiana and Sen. Bridges (R), of New Hampshire today followed President Truman's recommendation for a salary boost for Congress by introducing a bill raising the salary of Senators and Representatives from 10,000 to $20,000 a year.

In the same bill they proposed to increase the salary of the Vice President and speaker of the House from $15,000 to $25,000 a year and raise cabinet officers from $15,000 to $20,000 annually.

"We are acting upon the suggestion of the President and various members of the Senate who suggested an increase during debate on the expense allowance matter," said Overton.

Mr. Truman suggested a congressional salary of from $15,000 to $25,000 a year. The authors of the bill took the middle course of $20,000.

25 P.C. Cut in Canned Fruits Predicted

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The supply of canned fruits and vegetables available to civilians this year will be from 25 to 40 per cent less than in 1944, says Paul C. Stark, home food supply director for the War Food Administration.

The amount of some canned foods, such as tomatoes, will be only about half what it was a year ago, he told a regional meeting of Victory Garden and home-food processing leaders.

Returned Vet Saves Woman, 85, in Fire

MAPLEVILLE, R. I., June 8 (INS)—A discharged World War II veteran led an 85-year-old woman to safety today as fire destroyed her home and a restaurant.

Yank Outsmarts German, Even on Blitz--Bradley

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley declared today American tacticians outsmarted the Germans across France and into Germany, but he didn't know whether the Prussian general staff would admit it.

The 12th Army Group commander, newly appointed Veterans' Administrator, joined Secretary of War Stimson at a news conference and told reporters the quality and flexibility of American troops were prime factors in the European triumph.

"The German never did figure out how they could change direction of attack so quickly and he never did allow for it," Bradley asserted.

Asked if the captured German generals knew they had been outgeneraled Bradley said:

"I don't know if they ever will admit it but one of them said we improved on their blitz methods."

Bradley said flatly, "American troops are the best ever put in the field by any nation in the history of the world.

"They are better educated, have more initiative.

"The French and Belgians said our equipment made the German equipment look meager and obsolete."

Bradley praised the individual worth of the doughboy and said he knew of many cases "where one or two would hold up 50 to 100 Germans just by their initiative and bravery."

Bradley declined to discuss his new job, saying he has much work still to do in Europe in the next month or so.

Norwegian Held In Knife Holdup

Pulling what cab driver Hyman Gettleman, 34, of Castlegate rd., Roxbury, described as "the meanest looking knife I ever saw," a 21-year-old Norwegian sailor threatened to slit his throat and robbed him of $10 and his cab in South Boston early today, Gettleman reported to police.

The bandit was later arrested in the cab less than a block away from the holdup scene at Sixth and M sts., South Boston. Subduing the sailor after a struggle, Patrolmen William Cotter and Harold Barry booked him on suspicion of armed robbery and held him for the lineup.

Japs Move Yanks From Shanghai Camp

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The American Red Cross said today the prisoner of war camp at Shanghai, in which 426 American servicemen are reported held by Japan, is being moved to an undisclosed location in North China.

Red Cross officials believe the new location may be near Hoten, Manchuria, where other Americans are held.

Murder

tend the funeral of her husband, although she indicated earlier she would not do so. Meanwhile a baroness and an Indian chief joined the stranger-than-fiction array of characters figuring in the case.

Lawton introduced the baroness to the murder picture by saying she promoted the marriage of the Langfords in 1942. The baroness was seeking a wealthy wife for Langford, in spite of the fact he was adequately heeled himself, said Lawton was also wealthy.

The Indian, he added ,was the baroness' aide in stage settings for the romance.

Lawton, who has night club interests in Chicago, flew here last night to talk with the district attorney.

Also here for interrogation was Lt. Allen Preston Lewis, USA, of Washington.

The most colorful information has been supplied by Lawton, a dapper, side-burned baritone of 30, married and the father of two children. He was questioned about a de luxe night club his elderly patroness had suggested financing for him.

"The deal fell through" he said, "because she demanded too much of my time and tried to dominate my social life."

The police are agreed with the district attorney they have a many-faceted mystery on their hands. They have some account books kept by Mrs. Langford in which they found 500 names.

They know also Mrs. Langford was accustomed to bedecking herself with a diamond and emerald bracelet valued at $23,000.

Some of the probers advance the theory the two men who shot Langford had gone to the apartment for purposes of robbery and had killed him when he put up a fight in the vestibule.

As an extra fillip to the murder mystery there is a subordinate puzzler—the fact that Mrs. Langford concealed her marriage from her wealthy father. He had told her, it was said: "If anyone wanted to marry you at your age it would be for your money."

Questioned again was George Riales, friend of the late Metropolitan Opera singer Rafaelo Diaz, a one-time protege of Mrs. Langford. Riales had been previously questioned after it was learned that the two mysterious gunmen had mentioned Diaz's name before Langford was slain.

50 P. C. Tariff Cut Struck From Bill

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP) The Senate finance committee struck from the reciprocal trade agreement extension bill today authority to cut tariff rates an additional 50 per cent, then reported the bill favorably.

The vote on the vital amendment was 10 to 9, with seven Republican and three Democratic members of the committee lined up for it. Eight Democrats and Sen. La Follette (Progressive), Wisconsin, voted against.

The committee turned down five other amendments, including one sponsored by Sen. O'Mahoney (D.) of Wyoming to provide for congressional review of all new trade agreements and rate cuts and one by Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio, to limit extension of the trade law to two years.

Heads Overseas Troop Schools

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)— President Truman today nominated Col. Paul W. Thompson for promotion to brigadier general and the War Department disclosed that Thompson would head the education program for troops in Europe.

The program will revolve around university centers at Shrievenhan, England, and at Fontainebleau, France. A central technical school for 4000 students also will be established at Titworth, England, in mid-August. The university centers will offer courses of eight weeks' duration.

There also will be schools for students of elementary and high school rank. There will be unit schools for battalions and other units stationed some distance from fixed centers.

House Approves 3-Cent Cigaret Tax

By a rising vote of 77 to 28, the Massachusetts House today passed to be engrossed a bill establishing a permanent State tax of three cents a package on cigarets.

The present State tax is two cents a package.

Rep. George Green (R.) of Boston gave natice, however, that he would make a motion for reconsideration on Monday.

Senate Extends Report Deadline

The State Senate adopted an order today extending until Wednesday the deadline for filing committee reports. A number of bills, still held in committee, would have died if the extension had not been voted.

Similar action has been taken by the House.

Dr. Compton Favors Peace Draft Now

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP) - Action now on a program for compulsory postwar military training was proposed today by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Compton appeared before the House committee on postwar military policy, where religious, labor and education leaders yesterday spoke vigorously against immediate enactment of peacetime draft.

"Right now we would be well advised," the educator said, "to establish our reasonable military program and to let the world know that we mean business when we talk of preserving peace.

"Many of us believe that the sad lack of military preparedness and the very strong sentiment against any move even to prepare for war were simply invitations and incitements to Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito and their followers, to let loose their mad avalanche of armed aggression for conquest."

Compton said he believed a year of military training under good officers and with a sound program "could have a very wholesome influence on the succeeding generations of our young men."

The educator said he believed the universal training question "should be faced now and not postponed until the time of letdown after the war."

The American Civil Liberties Union urged postponement until after the war of any congressional action on draft legislation.

"Nothing will be lost in terms of national defense by postponing the decision," Ernest Angell of New York, a member of the union's board of directors, told the committee.

"It is evident that upon the conclusion of the greatest war in history no immediate threat will confront the United States," he added.

Angell said his statement represented the "practically unanimous opinion" of the union's 10,000 members.

Wigglesworth Asks Four War Agencies Be Abolished

Special to Boston American

WASHINGTON, June 8—Immediate termination of several war agencies was demanded by Rep. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts on the floor of the House yesterday, in a sharp attack on the war agencies annual appropriations bill.

Wigglesworth named the office of economic stabilization, war relocation authority, Office of War Information and Office of Inter-American Affairs as four agencies which should be liquidated very soon.

He said the War Shipping Administration should be investigated, and the office of contract settlements and the surplus property board, should be maintained only under "the closest possible control."

Wigglesworth was particularly critical of the manner in which the war agencies bill was prepared, describing it as "the most slipshod appropriation bill to come before the House." He said:

"Despite over 1300 pages of hearings, the bill was marked up in two hours and 35 minutes by the clock. It was marked up in the absence of about 50 per cent of the testimony, which was neither printed nor available.

Projects of these agencies which came in for special criticism included:

OWI's motion pictures with such titles as "Cowboy," "City Harvest," "Steel Town," "Jeep," and "Yellow Springs:"

OWI's publications on "Wall Calendar," "Music in the U. S. A.," "Small Town, U. S. A.," "Rights of Man."

OWI's purchases of scripts for publicizing the "Little Red School House," "Bronx Zoo," and "Fulton Fish Market."

As to the War Relocation Authority, Mr. Wigglesworth said:

"The record indicates . . . the payment of $129,300 for salaries for publicity to sell the program of WRA to the public, the payment of $2,134,000 for travel or almost $900 per employe, and the operation of 454 motor cars and 1256 trucks, or one automobile and three trucks for every four employes."

Medal to FD Aide Given His Widow

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to the White House today to help honor the memory of a close friend of her late husband.

She gathered with others in the rose garden of the executive mansion where President Truman presented posthumously a Distinguished Service Medal for Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson.

The medal was presented to Gen. Watson's widow at a ceremony attended by White House employes, most of whom had served under President Roosevelt with Gen. Watson, military aide to Mr. Roosevelt during most of his 12 years in office.

Attending also were Secretary of War Stimson, Bernard M. Baruch, Frank C. Walker, retiring postmaster general, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, Gen George C. Marshall and others.

Dad Tells of WAC Survivor at Shangri-La

OWEGO, N. Y., June 8 (AP)—WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, who with two Army airmen survived an air transport crash in the mysterious "hidden valley of Shangri-La" of Dutch New Guinea, is a tiny, sports-loving girl who gave up a good job to join the WAC a year ago.

Her father, Patrick J. Hastings, an employe of a shoe factory, today described his 31-year-old daughter as a brunette, five foot three, and weighing 100 pounds.

Asked if she was engaged or had a "boy friend," Hastings replied "She isn't that type."

"She enjoyed outdoor sports," he said, "and played tennis, soccer and golf. She also enjoyed playing cards, particularly bridge."

She is a graduate of Owego High School and a business school in Binghamton.

Shangri-La Crash Parts Twins; One Dies

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8 (AP)—The Army transport crash in the "Valley of Shangra-La" has separated the McCollom twins, almost inseparable since birth and whose Army careers have paralled each other since 1942 when they were commissioned after graduation from the University of Minnesota.

Lt. Robert E. McCollom was one of 21 Army personnel who died in the crash. His twin brother, Lt. John B. McCollom, Trenton, Mo., was one of three survivors.

The twins received their Army commissions upon graduation from the university's aeronautical department and both were assigned to Wright Field.

When they were separated briefly in 1943 Robert was married in St. Paul. He was then transferred to the Chicago office of the Mid-Central Procurement Center. Later he was sent to Minneapolis.

Last November they were reunited and sent overseas.

German Seeks Right to Make Food From Wood

By HOWARD COWAN

BAD GASTEIN, Austria, June 8 (AP)—Dr. Friedrich Bergius, German chemist, asked American authorities today for permission to resume production of a protein food he said was derived from waste wood. No action was taken immediately.

His goal is to get plants at Regensburg and Mannheim back into production. He said they could refine 800 tons of dry yeast monthly from "wood sugar," enough to provide a monthly diet substitute for meat, egg, butter and milk for 1,700,000 persons.

The 61-year-old scientist's synthetic oil process was one of the cornerstones in the Nazi war economy. He won the Nobel prize for Chemistry in 1931.

Bergius explained synthetic food is not new. Regensburg and Mannheim plants produced dry yeast and dextrose for the German army.

Before the German government took over the project small amounts of protein food had been made available to civilians, who could buy a two and a quarter pound package for about 70 cents. This amount, Bergius added, was designed to take care of the meat, butter, egg and milk requirements in one person's diet for a month.

He described the product as flaky and powdery with the color of brown sugar and a malty flavor pleasing to taste.

Any kind of wood—old lumber, discarded chairs and shingles—can be used in manufacturing "wood sugar" from which dry yeast is refined, Bergius said. A bamboo growing in Italian marsh lands between Venice and Trieste, has been proved by recent experiments to yield four times as much "wood sugar" as any other kind of wood, he asserted.

THE SWISS PLAN IS BEST

THE PROPOSED program of universal military training in peacetime is now before the Postwar Military Policy Committee of the House of Representatives for hearings and recommendation.

President Truman is known to be keenly interested in such a program and has recently said he has some ideas on the subject.

Being the first American President in almost half a century with a combat military background, Mr. Truman is in a position to speak with especial authority on the subject.

Nearly all Americans in a position to speak authoritatively, and with a background of personal military experience, are in favor of some form of compulsory military training for American youth in peacetime.

Mr. Joseph C. Grew, our ambassador to Japan prior to the present war, believes in it because—as he told the House Committee at its first hearing—he is convinced that "there are wars we should not have had to fight if we had been properly prepared."

Mr. John Thomas Taylor, legislative director of the American Legion, believes in it—according to his testimony before a subsequent hearing of the committee—because "there can be no stronger influence for lasting peace, no greater safeguard against lawless international aggression."

Mr. Omar B. Ketchum, legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and another witness before the committee, believes in it—and like President Truman, he has "some ideas" on the subject.

MR. KETCHUM's ideas, in fact, bring out the fact that while there is wide agreement on the principle of universal peacetime military training there is a difference of opinion regarding the proper system.

He contends, for instance, that the BEST system for democratic America is the plan proved to be most efficient and beneficial by democratic Switzerland.

He says the great success of the Swiss system constitutes the best of all reasons for the United States to adopt a similar system.

He says that the main purpose of the United States in having any kind of a military training program is to preserve and perpetuate peace, and that under the Swiss program the Swiss nation "has remained a bulwark for peace on a war-torn continent from the days of Napoleon to the present time."

The main feature of the Swiss system, which the Veterans of Foreign Wars advocate as a model for the United States—and which, incidentally, the Hearst newspapers have urged upon the American people for their consideration for many years—is that it creates the least possible disruption of the trainee's normal life.

The program favored by the American Legion proposes a full year of training and the War Department has the same thought about the matter, as did Mr. Roosevelt.

But the democratic Swiss nation has kept out of war with a maximum of 116 DAYS OF TRAINING annually for citizen soldiers.

And American soldiers have been sent into combat in the present war with as little as eleven weeks of training.

AS LONG AS there is agreement upon the principle of postwar military training, there should be no great difficulty about method—and the current Congressional hearings should resolve whatever difficulties exist.

The main thing to remember is that America wants a system that will be a safeguard against war, and that at the same time will preserve our democratic way of life.

As Mr. Ketchum now says, and the Hearst newspapers have so long been saying, the peaceful and democratic Swiss nation HAS such a system—and we could hardly do better than to emulate it, and we might do a great deal worse.

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI is reported to have taken his bride, Gloria, tenderly but firmly in hand. He is not a believer in the Spartan method of wife training suggested by Dr. Gaylord Hauser. You will recall Dr. Hauser said: "A wife should be trained like a race horse." Mr. Stokowski is more inclined to the "iron hand in the velvet glove" system. At present he is said to be supervising the buying of Gloria's hats. He is also reported teaching her not to pout or sulk. Many men of experience and discernment have commented on the training of youthful wives. On this subject William Shakespeare, the greatest horses & women expert of all time, had the following to say.

Gloria Stokowski

Happy in this, she is not yet so old
But she may learn; happier than this
She is not bred so dull but she can learn;
Happiest of all is that her gentle spirit
Commits itself to yours to be directed

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—My husband is very hard on shirts. Uses two or three a day. What have your Mules & Men experts to say regarding such an expensive husband? Should I make him wear blue flannel shirts? A—While I cannot condone such an extravagant use of laundry, I can understand it. A fresh, clean shirt is a great morale builder. I am quite a shirt user-upper myself. In fact, just today my girl friend said with a touch of sarcasm: "Fifteen clean shirts came from the laundry. Try to make them last three days." Q—What are your favorite similes? A—I wouldn't fool you. I have my favorite horses, shortstops, actresses, triple-threat quarterbacks, comedians, books and restaurants, but so far have not sufficiently developed the intellectual side of life to make a collection of favorite similes. However, here is one I like:

How far that little candle throws its beam!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world.

Just for you,
But now, dear, I gotta go to school!

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc

NEW YORK, June 8—If you would like to share my perplexity over the editorial policy of Collier's Weekly in publishing articles which seem to me to be unnecessarily kind to Communism, why just help yourself because there is plenty on hand and it isn't rationed.

Westbrook Pegler

As these dispatches pointed out not long ago, Collier's, which is a Park Avenue publication with the usual clubby furniture in its foyer for anxious authors, illustrators and cartoonists to sit upon while waiting their turns to see somebody, printed one story by Ella Winter and another by Lillian Hellman about their observations on a recent trip to Russland, and, as a regular thing, it was here observed, Collier's runs articles by a fellow on the staff who calls himself Kyle Crichton in Collier's but uses the name of Robert Forsythe when he writes for the New Masses.

IN THIS connection it was noted that although Collier's blew a few editorial kisses at these writers by way of introducing them to the customers, it said nothing at all to call attention to their politics.

This I took to be a rather serious oversight because, after all, if a writer is radically inclined then he or she might be disposed to give Communism and the Russian system the best of things. And the result might be misleading to the American consumer.

On that occasion I went to the index of the Dies Committee's records and gave you the number of citations of each of these three and the only reaction from Collier's was not a disagreement with my warning and argument but a note catching me in a mistake that I should not have made and here do correct.

I said Bill Chenery was the editor of Collier's, which was a dumb error because Bill has been made publisher and the editor is Henry La Cossitt, as I should have noted on the masthead.

★ ★ ★

NOW Collier's has Ella Winter telling us about the revival of religion in Russia and the beauties of home life.

If you know my reputation for chivalry you will understand how painfully it grieves me to have to disbelieve Winter's story about this change in affairs in Russia and will realize, I hope, that it isn't a personal doubt of a person but a distrust of a whole group of propagandists and ideologists.

They would never forgive me for believing any evil things written about life in Russia by some anti-Communist and so I don't see how anybody can expect me to believe beautiful things written by their friends.

And I sort of feel that Collier's should have told us that these girls were friends of Russia instead of leaving us to believe that they were objective and impartial reporters.

Furthermore Collier's recently had a story about a thing called a school for leadership conducted by the National Maritime Union, whose president is Joe Curran, a great friend and political protege of the Roosevelt government, who has honored radical policy for a long time in his political attitudes here.

This was a great plug for the N. M. U., and you would have thought it was just a school to teach merchant sailors to get along tolerably with the masters and the companies if your mind were innocent of my own conviction that it is a school of Communistic purposes and a device to confirm after the war the control of the American merchant marine by a small group of individuals.

★ ★ ★

THEN, ON TOP of all that, along comes Collier's with an editorial, mind you, entitled, "The NMU Sees the Light," which said, among other things, "Joe Curran deserves a round of applause for a brilliant piece of statesmanship."

Puzzled about all this in a Park Avenue magazine which goes out over the country as a straight, old-line American publication, I telephoned to Tom Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., because he has a kid named Corliss who is a bit radical and the old man, himself, had been reported, on and off, to be a big, still voice in Collier's editorial policy by way of his stock holdings. Maybe the old man had caught it from the kid.

But, nope, Mr. Lamont said he didn't own but just a no-account little bit of stock and had never even offered an editorial suggestion to Collier's and, in fact, didn't often read it.

So perplexity is something that I haven't got much else but and if you happen to be short at this writing, turn to Collier's and take all you want.

HOLLYWOOD, June 8—Producer Bill Bacher, former radio expert, and John Larkin, the writer, are Costa Rica-bound to make all arrangements to produce a technicolor musical there.

The Costa Rican ambassador has been on the 20th Century-Fox lot practically all week arranging for the jaunt, and it is no accident, I am sure, that they will arrive there about the time of the famed four-day festival. It's a beautiful ceremony on the order of our Tournament of Roses—which gives Bacher an idea for the title of the musical, "The City of Flowers."

You know,"* he added, "when we finish this picture, I am going to take three months off and maybe then I'll go."

★ ★ ★

I MET John Wildberg and he said, "What about 'The Gay Illiterate'? I would like to do it on Broadway this winter." Well, what about it? If it's to be done on the stage, I'd like Wildberg to do it but it belongs to 20th Century-Fox. Wildberg tells me that he has asked Elsa Maxwell to play herself in "Belle Brody," a musical comedy something on the order of "Of Thee I Sing" and "Panama Hattie." Elsa says she is seriously considering his offer and may do it this fall.

WASHINGTON, June 8 — Personally, I never dreamed that former President Herbert Hoover was an authority on animation, or ever practiced same.

He always seemed about as vivacious as last Tuesday's codfish. What I mean, he seemed to lack that certain verve.

In fact, there is a certain female to whom I happen to be married, who invariably refers to our distinguished ex-President as "Old Quince Face." I have never held with this, and have administered frequent rebukes, but my rebuking has never counted for much domestically.

Herbert Hoover

It turns out, however, that we were all wrong. While Mr. Hoover may not look entirely sportive to the naked eye, he nevertheless has definite ideas on how to be blithe and jaunty. He not only practices animation, but gives short lectures on it.

He delivered one of these lectures the other day to President Truman!

★ ★ ★

IT ALL CAME about after Mr. Hoover had conferred with our new Chief Executive. Inasmuch as it had been some time since the ex-President had visited the White House—a matter which we will not go into here—the newspaper photographers thought they would like a picture of him chatting with the current tenant.

Press photographers get ideas like this all the time, and I often wonder where they get them.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Truman posed with extreme graciousness.. But not, however, with sufficient animation to suit the photogs. The cameramen finally complained that the august pair were showing about as much vivacity as fellows who had just been asked to go comaker on a personal loan.

The subjects tried again, but it still didn't satisfy the photogs. Finally, Mr. Hoover turned to Mr. Truman and said:

"Just say your ABC's. It looks like animation!"

A WHILE BACK, I reported that Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, had turned cupid. He had received an appeal from Sgt. Wayne D. Baker, at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo., asking him to intercede so Baker could go back to England on furlough to marry his British sweetheart, Miss Betty Chittleburg of Sprowston, Norwich, England.

Senator O'Mahoney went to bat for the lovelorn warrior. The War Department agreed to help out love's young dream. The Senator said it was his definite understanding that Sgt. Baker was on his way back to Norwich and love.

However, my romantic soul is practically in sackcloth and ashes because I have just received this letter from Sgt. Baker, now at Buckley Field, Colo.:

"I am writing to let you know that the article about me being on my way back to England to marry isn't true as yet. I only wish it were.

"I made application to the Adjutant General for furlough to England on April 6, as advised by Senator O'Mahoney, but haven't heard anything yet.

"I admit my case has received a lot of publicity. I don't mind the publicity, but what I really want is to return to England so I can marry.

"If I am in England now, I would like to know it!"

★ ★ ★

DEAR SGT. BAKER: I am passing your letter on to Sen. O'Mahoney. I know he honestly thought that all arrangements had been completed and that you had gone back to England. I think I can assure you that somebody is going to hear very forcibly from the Senator, because he is a gentleman who takes his Cupiding seriously.

★ ★ ★

INCIDENTALLY, for the benefit of always romantic readers, the reason Sgt. Baker has to go to England to marry is that Miss Chittleburg's father will not permit her to make the journey here unwed. It seems some British fathers have strong ideas on such matters.

★ ★ ★

THERE WAS a debate in the House the other day, having to do with a treaty and Dumbarton Oaks. I could find out the exact nature of the debate but it would mean reading back over six pages of the Congressional Record and I do not feel up to it today.

Anyway, the only portion that interested me was the sprightly exchange between Reps. Jessie Sumner of Illinois and Hatton W. Sumners of Texas.

Sumner and Sumners are not related, even if there is only an "s" between them.

Mr. Sumners was asking support for the measure, whatever it was, when Miss Sumner cut in:

"The gentleman from Texas says he is going to vote the absent members. Is he going to vote the dead ones, too?"

Mr. Summers, who is both a Democrat and a gentleman of the old school, retorted:

"I think we will let you Republicans answer for yourselves."

Then chivalry reassured itself, for he added:

"I do not mean that. I say things once in a while that I wish I had not. The fact is, the first intimation I have sometimes is when I hear words like those coming out of my mouth."

YOU KNOW, Hatton, we've long suspected something like that!

Beauty — Here's Perfume Supreme — Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

FOR A LITTLE bit of facial delight we give you lovely Universal Star June Vincent . . . and for a little bit of June magic we give you a new perfume with a strange subtle power . . . a special brand of sorcery all its own . . . to weave the spell your heart dictates . . . a tantalizing, heady, provocative scent that's haunting but ubiquitous.

UNLESS YOU ARE READY to cope with a big male following . . . don't wear the tantalizing, heady and provocative perfume we're going to tell you about . . . for men fall for it like a ton of bricks. So be warned! There's a strange subtle power in the fragrance which has a witchery all its own.

We sprinkled some of it around on a few of our friends who came back with this astounding report. Men asked for the name of the perfume . . . when it came into being . . . and "for heaven's sake" what's in it. Well, when you get men asking such pointed and pertinent questions about a scent . . . you just know it weaves an intangible spell, a special brand of sorcery that women with imagination appreciate and dote on.

It is all that a perfume should be . . . clings for hours weaving a web of feminine artistry which mere man cannot resist. So use it with discretion . . . a little goes a long way. A drop behind the ears . . . inside your elbows . . . on your wrists . . . or at the hollow of your throat . . . is all you need.

GRAND WITH NEW BLACK SHEERS

It's the perfume supreme to wear with the new black sheers . . . and has a suave elegance exactly right for that piece de resistance of any wardrobe "the basic black dress" . . . marvelous too when you wear black accessories to emphasize summer brights and pastels.

Remember the famous song . . . "Round and Round You'll Go" . . . well one whiff of this liquid magic and you too will be in its spell . . . loving every spin. Wear it always when you want to be your most feminine . . . most mysterious . . . most poised . . . and if you're looking for a perfume to ensnare the "one and only" . . . here it is with all the magic of the perfumer's art caught in each amber drop.

For the name of this spell-weaving perfume, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SLACKS are slick . . . and these dark slacks distinguished by fine tailoring make a well-dressed way to spend cool evenings (better get used to them). An impeccable blouse in a lovely soft beige points up Oriental reserve with a tab collar and long sleeves tied and towed at the wrists. RKO Star Ruth Warrick . . . beautiful example of the perfect slack look . . . gives vent to a sprightly imagination . . . and adds a touch of the Latin with a peineta in her hair.—R. M.

Sausage Treat

By MARTHA LEE

WHAT EXCITING things can be done with a pound of sausage! Add bulk sausage to other ground meats for a meat loaf, casserole, or patties and you have an entirely different dish. Savory sausage links fit into any meal of the day, from breakfast to late supper.

Sausage links, properly cooked to plump, juicy brownness, add eye appeal to a platter or casserole dish; they give zip and zest to mild-flavored foods. Try teaming them with scalloped noodles, scrambled eggs, or rice patties and syrup.

MENU

Barbecued Sausage Casserole
American-Style Fried Potatoes
Hot Biscuits
Butter or Margarine
Lemon Milk Sherbert
Cookies Coffee

The barbecued sausage casserole below brings together the spicy richness of sausage, the "fill-'em-up" quality of kidney beans, and the flavorful goodness of vegetables — celery, onion, green pepper and tomatoes in the form of soup and catsup. What more could a summertime main dish offer?

The method of cooking the sausage links starts out the same as if you were cooking and serving them alone. A little water is added at the start to make them plump; then, when the water has evaporated, they're cooked to a gorgeous brown over slightly increased heat. The kidney beans are combined with the meat and other ingredients just before serving. As a last suggestion—be sure this dish is piping hot.

BARBECUED SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 lb. sausage links
2 tbsp. water
1 onion, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped
6 pieces celery, chopped
1 can tomato soup
¼ cup catsup
2½ cups cooked kidney beans

Place sausage in cold frying pan. Add water, cover and simmer until water evaporates. Remove cover, increase heat and brown sausage. Add onion, green pepper, celery, tomato soup and catsup. Cover and simmer slowly for 30 minutes. Add beans to cooked mixture and heat thoroughly. Makes 8 servings.

With this dish, a simple salad will be best. Crisp cabbage with a well-seasoned dressing is a favorite standby. Hot biscuits will find a ready welcome.

LEMON SHERBET

1½ cups sugar
3 cups milk
¾ cup lemon juice
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsp. plain unflavored gelatin
1 tbsp. cold water

Add sugar to warmed milk and stir until dissolved, then add lemon juice, grated rind and salt. Soak gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, place over boiling water and heat until gelatin is dissolved while stirring. Then add to first mixture while stirring. Pour into the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator with a temperature control at coldest setting and freeze until firm about 1 inch in from edge of tray. Stir and whip with a fork until smooth. Freeze until firm. A half-hour before serving, stir and whip again with a fork until smooth. Makes 8 servings.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Thursday—As the international scene unfolds before us day by day in San Francisco and in other parts of the world, it becomes increasingly clear that the meetings of statesmen; the articles written in papers and magazines, which frequently reflect not just the thoughts of the authors but the points of view of those who control the various publications; the speeches of men representing various groups and sections of thought in various countries; all of these, added together, are not going to give us a peaceful world.

The statesmen may succeed in setting up some machinery through which spokesmen for various countries can be called together and even take action in certain situations in the future. But the object for which our men are fighting and dying today is a peaceful world in the future. I think it is as well that the people of the various nations of the world face the fact that this object is going to be achieved only when the peoples of the world in it that it shall be the one objective to which statesmen, businessmen, the press and communications generally throughout the world devote their best energies.

* * *

ONLY PEOPLE can bring this home to their leaders. They alone can say: "What will it profit us if we acquire a better oil supply in some part of the world or to be assured of trade with this country or that? If our standard of living goes up, but our neighbors' standard of living goes down; if we eat, but our neighbors starve, we may have power for a little while, but we will not have assurance of peace and security for all."

It is generally conceded that there cannot be peace in the world unless the three nations which fought together and won the war in Europe continue to work together for such conditions in the world as will keep us at peace. That being the case, we should be making far greater efforts to understand the particular situation which each one of these nations confronts.

* * *

WE KNOW they want security as we do—freedom from fear and from want. Security is not a matter of armed forces alone. We can build those up at great cost and still not be able to stand alone, or even form a group to battle the rest of the world. Germany proved this. Security from fear of aggression is really a matter of good faith and trust among nations and their peoples. Security is also a matter of economic resources and of ability, through trade and production, to give peoples the world over the things which they need in order that they may feel their lot in life is steadily improving.

Definite actions, however, stand out as detrimental to our chance of building future security. Some of these actions, in connection with Communist activities, I want to bring to your attention tomorrow.

Natural Silk for Evening

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE MUCH-PRIZED natural raw silk that is around in limited quantities this summer makes some of the best evening outfits I have seen. And these can, when designed by a personality like Carrie Munn, be very distinctive, like her model that is sketched.

Carrie Munn makes the jacket and dress of this natural raw silk, the former being printed in black with a Roman key design that is very striking and effective. Carrie Munn shows this jacket also with black daytime dresses as well as a companion piece to the evening dress in our sketch.

The dress is trimmed with bands of the printed silk of the jacket in tabs around the decollete and around the hem. The way the body of the dress is worked in curved bands, gives it a magnificent line.

Reunion Monday For B. C. Grads

The fourth wartime Alumni Day for graduates of Boston College will be observed Monday as part of the Commencement Week exercises.

Anniversary classes holding reunions from 5 to 6:30 p. m., are: 1920, J. Robert Brawley, West Roxbury, president; 1925, William Arthur Reilly, Jamaica Plain, president; 1930, John J. Hayes, Brighton, president; 1935, William J. Fitzsimons, Dorchester, and John J. Griffin, Somerville, co-chairmen; 1940, William P. Joy, Somerville, president.

The annual dinner will be held in the Tower at 6:30 p. m., followed by the annual meeting in the library auditorium, when Very Rev. William J. Murphy, S. J., president of the college, will address the alumni.

The William V. McKenney medal will be awarded to the outstanding alumnus of the year. The exercises will close with the presentation of the Alumni play, written by William H. Marnell, '27, Dorchester, and John J. Buckley, '27, Hyde Park. John A. Canavan, president of the Alumni Ass'n, has appointed Alexander L. Lashway, '23, of Pawtucket, R. I., as chairman of the day.

CIO Demands End Of Labor Controls

CHICAGO, June 8 (AP)—The executive board of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) has called for immediate abolition of all government wartime manpower controls.

Declaring that a surplus labor supply has resulted since the defeat of Germany, a resolution urged immediate removal of all manpower controls and restoration to workers of their right to obtain employment without governmental interference or restrictions.

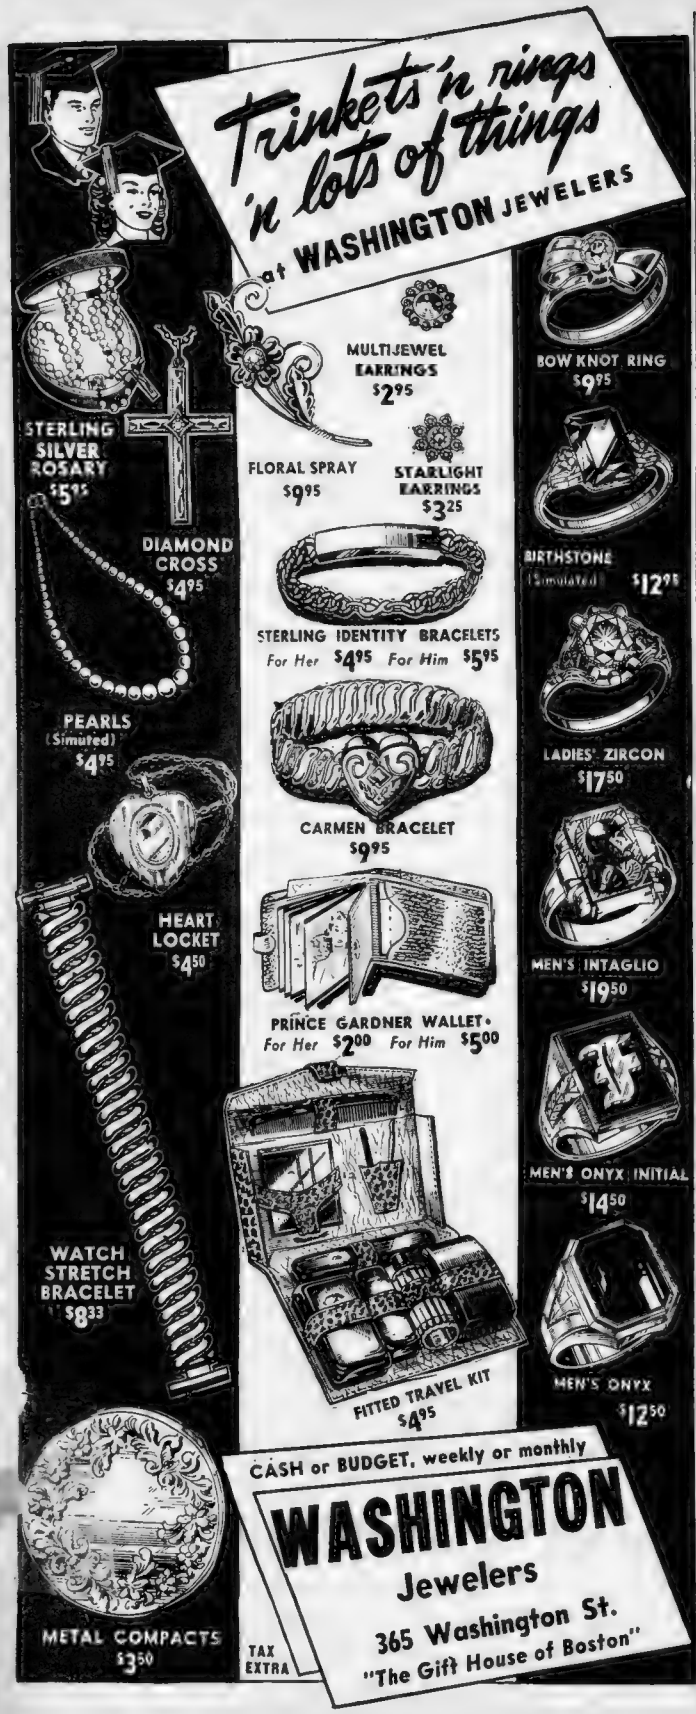
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.



Gen. Patton Speeds By Air to West Coast

Announcing his ambition is "to get to the Pacific but it may not be fulfilled," Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., boarded his plane at Bedford Airport at 8:45 a. m. today for a flight to his native California where tomorrow Los Angeles will take up the tumult and the shouting with which a million Bostonians roared him the most enthusiastic welcome in this city's history.

He was accompanied by Mrs Patton and two women whose identities the Army did not disclose. They arrived at the airport in an Army car escorted by State Police. The general's aides and other officers who are making the trip with him came over the road from the Copley Plaza Hotel, where they remained last night.

The three-plane flight will make its first stop at Denver, an overnight pause, and will take off for Los Angeles tomorrow morning.

Showing no weariness despite only a brief sleep at his Hamilton estate after a day and night of transatlantic flying, public receptions, banquets and interviews, the 59-year-old Third Army leader walked from his car to plane with springy step.

The man whose gallant Third Army veterans led the conquest of Germany disclosed that he plans to come back here in a few weeks for a summer vacation at Hamilton. He said that after the public festivities in Los Angeles are over he hoped to get a week or 10-day leave to spend with his sister in Los Angeles.

"There is a little church out there (St. Gabriel's Episcopal Church) where I was baptized and confirmed. God has been very good to me and I'd like to go there and give thanks to Him," Gen. Patton declared.

Commenting on the reception given him in Boston, Patton said: "I have never been so moved as by the magnificent reception proffered me by your Gov. Tobin and the people of Massachusetts —as a representative of the Third Army, you understand—and I have never felt so unworthy."

Mystery Fire On 2d Hub Ship

Five hours after it arrived here from Europe, the Liberty ship SS Hollister broke into flames at Pier 4, Northern ave., of the New Haven Railroad, early today, and damage estimated at $7000 was done before the fire was brought under control by police and fire boats and wharf-based apparatus.

Fifty-five crew members were forced to flee for safety while the ship's officers and firemen donned gas masks to battle the flames, confined to the No. 1 hold in the vessel's forepeak.

U. S. Customs officials declined to say what cargo the ship carried. The fire was the second on a recently-returned ship here within three days.

Navy Girl-Bride Beaten to Death

UNION CITY, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Mildred S. Viaud, 17-year-old bride of a Navy man was found battered to death in her two-room apartment today.

Dr. William Eckert, police surgeon, said death apparently was caused by strangulation and beating with some undetermined instrument about 12 hours before her body was discovered.

Deputy Police Chief Edward Mescall said no weapon was found. He considered the possibility she had been slain elsewhere and her body carried to her home.

Police said her husband, George Viaud, is stationed in San Francisco.

Q—My husband had his finger (right index) amputated while serving overseas with the Navy. Improper treatment after his finger was injured resulted in loss later. Does he receive the Purple Heart? Also is he entitled to compensation after discharge? K. B., Lynn

A—In order to receive Purple Heart loss of finger must result from enemy action would be necessary to know more detail regarding original injury. However, if he is eligible for such award it will be granted by naval authorities through his commanding officer. Regarding compensation, that is a matter to be decided by the Veterans Administration following discharge.

Q—I was honorably discharged in January, 1943, under Sec. 2, War Dept. Circular No. 397, to accept employment in essential industry. Have I any right to mustering-out pay? R. N., Boston.

A—Members of the Army discharged under Circular No. 397 not eligible for mustering-out pay.

Q—My husband was killed in Germany sometime in March. Up to the present all we have received is a Purple Heart. Why haven't we received his gratuity pay and also applications for pension? L. S., Mattapan.

A—You should have received all necessary applications for gratuity pay, insurance, etc. Suggest you contact Veterans Bureau, Federal Building, Boston, immediately. Also write Adjutant General, U. S. Army, War Dept., Wash., D. C. Delays are usually caused by lack of certain information which must be in possession of War Dept. before payments are made.

Q I am an ex-serviceman, discharged from the Army under honorable conditions. I have just been hired on my first job. Was informed that if I fail to join union within 30 days will be fired. My intentions when taking the job was to work for six months and then go into business for myself. Is a veteran compelled to join a union? A. G., Cambridge.

A—Your question is very difficult to answer due to lack of additional information regarding type of job and if place of employment is a closed shop or hold certain contracts with management regarding hiring of union help. Suggest you contact Veterans' Rehabilitation and Employment office for the city of Cambridge. Proper person to present facts in your case will be given by local draft board.

De Sylva Better After Seizure

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 8 (INS)—The condition of Buddy De Sylva, noted producer and Paramount executive, was improved today following an attack of coronary thrombosis Tuesday and a serious setback later. He has been gravely ill and for a time it looked as if Buddy would not make it.

Today his doctor reported he was much better and had every chance of recovery, but it will be a long, slow process during which he will have to remain very quiet.

Housekeeping Real Paradise --After the War

By JEANETTE SMITS

NEW YORK, June 8 (INS)—Ask any housewife how she'd like:

Tablecloths and draperies that don't have to be laundered—just dipped in a bucket of water and hung up to dry.

A single blanket on the bed which has electrically woven strands and can be kept heated at exactly the right temperature.

Light weight metal chairs with upholstery impervious to all kinds of weather.

A frozen-food refrigerator in which she can keep indefinitely meat, fruits, vegetables, butter and other foods regarded as perishable.

And then, while she's still exclaiming, tell her she's going to have all this and more, too—in that delightful postwar world not too long after V-J Day.

State Bond Sales Near Half Mark

Sales of E bonds in Massachusetts in the Seventh War Loan drive reached $64,900,000 today, 46.3 per cent of the State's $140,000,000 quota while Greater Boston purchases of $38,720,000 were 45.9 per cent of the Metropolitan area's goal of $84,308,000.

Sales of other types of bonds in the State reached 59 per cent of the $98,000,000 quota with a total of $84,200,000 while in Greater Boston sales were $64,214,000, which is 96.6 per cent of the area's $66,493,000 quota.

The figures brought the total sales to individuals in the state to $149,100,000 or 62.5 per cent of the $238,000,000 quota, while Greater Boston's total sales were $102,934,000, or 68.2 per cent of the quota of $150,801,000.

Hyde Park Police Captain Dies

Police Capt. Harry T. Grace, 66, in command of the Hyde Park division, died today at his home in Stockton, st., Dorchester.

Capt. Grace

A member of the force for 38 years, Capt. Grace had served in 15 divisions throughout the city. He was perhaps best known as the officer who ended the reign of "loopers" in Charlestown some years ago.

Capt. Grace instigated the torn-up street traps which landed the "loopers" in police custody. He was a favorite of newsmen to whom he was always "Pop."

Joining the force in 1905, he was made a sergeant in 1918, a lieutenant in 1926 and a captain in 1931. He had been in poor health since the death of his wife last December. He is survived by a son, Donald, and a daughter, Dorothy. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Debs at Cotillion

By BETTY ALDEN

THE CURTAIN RINGS up on a new debutante season this evening when over 120 daughters of Boston's first families are presented in a colorful Grand March at the Debutante Cotillion.

Many dinner parties will precede this gala party at the Copley Plaza. The debs are wearing filmy white or pastel gowns with wristlets of white flowers.

Mrs. Ralph Bradley

Fifty young friends of Hilda Ayer will join her at the dinner given by her uncle and aunt Col. and Mrs. Neil W. Rice. Hilda is a niece of General Patton and sister of Neil Ayer, a plebe at West Point, who is home to escort her in the grand march.

There will be sixty place cards at the dinner for debutantes Cathie Martinez, Kay MacDuffie, Katharine Montgomery and Tean Whipple, whose brother, Sherman, is home from Navy duty in the Pacific and will be her escort in the Grand March.

Mrs. Georgette Laneres is giving a dinner for her daughter Jacqueline, who graduated from Winsor School this morning. Jackie's guests are Persis Gleason, Geraldine Harding, Victoria Henderson, Ada Frances Risley, Anne Morris, Ellen Monks, Nesta Wheeler and Katharine French. Their escorts are Thomas Wells, Douglas Allen, Arthur Amiot, Henry C. Everett, Jr., Victor Koecht, Manuel Madden, G. Barr McCutcheon, Michael Robbins, George Tilghman, R. C. Cobb and Ensign Ernest Henderson, Jr.

THE COTILLION is the beginning of a whirl of partying for Jackie Laneres, who makes her debut at a dance at the Cambridge Boat Club June 16. On the 22nd she and her family leave for a month in Quebec after which Jackie, an accomplished violinist, will do some work for the South End Music School. Her sister, Yvette, who came out a few years ago, graduated from Bryn Mawr and is a full instructor in languages at Simmons.

Mrs. James Minot is giving a dinner for her daughter Connie before the Cotillion and other dinner hostesses are Mrs. Clarence Hovey and Mrs. Hemenway Callan for Dorothy Hovey and Mary Callan; Mrs. Benjamin S. Blake, a large dinner for Joan; Mrs. Robert Raymond, Jr., for Olivia; Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Robert Bradford, whose daughter Becky is a deb; Mrs. Ralph Bradley and Mrs. Edward A. Whitney for Hannah Bradley and Carlotta Whitney.

★ ★ ★

THE VOLUNTEERS who give so much of their time to help alleviate nursing and labor shortages at the N. E. Deaconess Hospital, will get together for a picnic lunch and entertainment on the lawn next Tuesday. Miss Constance Learned, director of the Deaconess Volunteer Service, will welcome the volunteers and urge the recruiting of more men for housecleaning chores and medical aides, and women to work on surgical supplies.

Joining the fun will be a trio of husky volunteer housecleaners—Harry A. Bertschy, Richard Thibodeau and John Soule. Also Elise Richardson, Mrs. Virginia Aborn, Priscilla Danforth, Mrs. Eliot Joslin, Mrs. Edgar Wrightington, Mrs. Frank Paine and many more.

Check Damage To V-Gardens

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head of Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of Boston Record American Sunday Advertiser Victory Garden on Boston Common.)

With many crops damaged or set back so far that they may have to be replanted, the job of the V-gardener now is to closely inspect his garden and appraise the damage.

If some plants have died, they should be replaced, and if seeds have failed to come up, new ones should be planted. There is still time to plant most crops and have them mature.

Commercial growers also have felt the effect of the weather with a probable loss of 25 to 30 per cent of the crop. Such early crops as lettuce and spinach are 10 days to 2 weeks behind. Early cauliflower, broccoli and celery will probably head prematurely or go to seed. Tomatoes are dying in large quantities and such crops as corn, beans and squash grown from seed have been lost due to the seed rotting.

What does this mean to the home gardener? It means that they must make a greater effort to keep their gardens going and replant if necessary. I would suggest that you watch your crops carefully after the weather clears up, and if they do not respond, start over. You will be surprised what a few sunny clear days will do to start crops along.

While waiting for the soil to dry out so that it can be worked, let me suggest that you continue adding plant refuse to the compost pile.

6 Waste Paper Pickups Sunday

War salvage committees striving to achieve June quotas, and the benefit of promised good weather, waste paper will be collected Sunday in six Greater Boston communities.

Volunteer workers will gather bundles in Cambridge, Arlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Stoughton and Swampscott.

In Cambridge the auxiliary police organization, headed by Sgt. Charles E. Donnelan, will man a fleet of trucks contributed by local businessmen, and cover every street in the city.

Lexington will add a new wrinkle to the salvage program by making a collection of old rags along with waste paper and tin cans. It is the first community in the Greater Boston area to schedule a three-way salvage drive.

Eisenhower to Be President's Guest

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Eisenhower will be the honor guest at a White House dinner June 18 as part of Washington ceremonies celebrating his return to this country.

White House Press Secretary Ross said the President was planning the dinner for the evening following a joint congressional meeting at which Gen. Eisenhower will be formally received by members of the two houses of Congress.

Confidence Men Admit Mistake

Two confessed New York confidence men, one lately out of Sing Sing, stood in the lineup today and frankly admitted they had made a mistake in coming to Boston.

They had tried to sell a South End restaurant man a "chemical" which they represented would transform ordinary paper into currency. One of the pair tipped a waitress $10 to show the intended victim how he could throw money around if he bought the chemical.

The prospect became suspicious. He told the police. They nabbed the New Yorkers, one of whom told Lt. James V. Crowley, "Somebody must have seen that boy before."

Irene Manning Stars at Boston

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Irene Manning, singing star of "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Doughboys" and "Desert Song," raises her really lovely voice in song at the RKO-Boston this week, and despite the fact that she hasn't a lot of jive in her performance, the youthful audience at the opening show liked her.

Wearing a dream dress of strawberry-ice-cream pink tulle, Miss Manning looked captivating in a very respectable way. She sang "June Is Busting Out All Over" almost as well as does Christine Johnson, who introduced it in "Carousel"; she also did "Acapulco," in which she might with profit be less refined, but was at her best in "Mary Is a Grand Old Name," the song she revived with George M. Cohan in the movies.

The show as a whole is pleasing entertainment; not the best vaudeville bill this theater has offered, but still good. Georgie Auld and his swing orchestra were well received, and in this corner's opinion, rightly so. They play stimulating jazz without acting like maniacs, and even the jive-happiest fans approved lustily of their "Stomping at the Savoy," in which the maestro did some hot sax solos.

Also on the bill are Nan Rae and Mrs. Waterfall, who are featured on Kate Smith's radio program. Nan plays straight to the addled village character, Mrs. Waterfall. Their dialogue seemed to please, but it leaned too often on questionable humor.

On the screen Boris Karloff and Bela Lugos are featured in one of the best of the horror films, "The Body Snatchers."

Bing Crosby To Sell Bonds

Bing Crosby, making his first public appearance here in more than a dozen years, is expected to draw a tremendous "house" tomorrow at the Seventh War loan noonday rally on the Common.

This should be the red-letter rally of rallies held daily at noon at the Parkman Bandstand on Boston Common under auspices of the film industry's War Activities Committee.

The sensationally popular star of the Academy Award-winning "Going My Way" will sing a medley of the tunes you love to hear him sing. He will further aid the Seventh War Loan drive by auctioning off personally autographed bonds and photographs to the highest bidders.

Exeter's 'Silver Fleet' One of Top British Films

By PEGGY DOYLE

One of England's finest actors in possibly the best drama to come out of this war is presently adding further luster to the British film industry on the Exeter screen.

The film is PRC's Ralph Richardson - starring topical melodrama, "The Silver Fleet," which comes here after a prolonged Broadway run (it sneaked into this country as a "sleeper"). It is a brilliant example of that rare talent the British possess for building up enormous suspense and at the same time turning out a melter distinguished for intelligence and integrity.

Richardson, whom you may remember for his performances in "The Citadel," "Four Feathers," "The Divorce of Lady X," and "Clouds Over Europe," does a beautifully understated job as the Dutch shipyard owner.

Apparently collaborating with the Nazis occupying Holland, he is reviled and ostracized as a Quisling by the townspeople. Even his wife doubts his patriotism as he leaves her for what is to be the last time for the trials on the submarine just completed in his shipyard. Accompanying him on this first and final submerging are high ranking Nazi officials.

Richardson's pseudo-Quisling is perfection. The only tip-off to his patriotism is his diary, the daily notations revealing that he is the latter-day Piet Heyn (famous admiral during the reign of James I of England who became Holland's legendary hero, through his victories against the Spanish) whose mysterious messages weave an anti-Nazi conspiracy among the shipyard workers.

A final notation in his diary addressed to his wife, might be any soldier's epitaph and every war widow's consolation. It follows.

"I shall be with you darling in this house because I love you and you love me. I shall be in the shipyard because my men will remember me. I shall be here because I was one of the seeds from which Freedom grew again. I shall not die. Does a seed die when it is buried in the earth? Has the wind died when it ceases to blow? Are the waves dead when the sea is calm? The truth is that a nation will only live as long as it has people ready to die!"

There is a notable performance by Esmond Knight, who returned to the screen to play an arrogant Nazi officer after being blinded in the war. Versatile Googie Withers turns in another superb characterization as Van Leyden's deeply distressed wife. Kudoes go, too, to producers Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, who produced the picture with the co-operation and advice of the Royal Netherlands Navy and of the British Navy, and to writers-directors Vernon Campbell and Gordon Wellesley.

For all-around excellence "The Silver Fleet" rates the genuine sterling mark of merit.

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Friday, June 8, 1945

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are innately humorous, gay, interesting in conversation. Sometimes too impulsive, restless. Can make headway in an occupation bringing you in contact with public and where clever ideas and original methods are required. All fields of entertainment politics, newspaper work especially appeal. Curb impatience; value concentration. Birthdate of Charles Reade, noted English novelist, dramatist.

LUCKY COLOR—Apricot.

Due to wartime conditions the Frances Drake Horoscope leaflets are being discontinued for 1945.

Sparkling Job

OMAHA, Neb., June 8 (AP)—George Harr lost a diamond while he was feeding his flock of chickens and reduced his barnyard population by 250.

He called in James L. White to help him find the diamond. White killed, cleaned and dressed 250 chickens before he discovered the gem.

Sky's the Limit

SALT LAKE CITY, June 8 (AP)—Hugh L. Thomas, price specialist for the OPA here, was stumped when a woman asked by telephone:

"What's the ceiling price on digging up my husband?"

She wanted her husband's body moved to another cemetery and complained $35 was too much "and I know it shouldn't cost more than $15."

Thomas said such service lacked OPA regulation.

Case of Matt Regan, Blue Discharge Soldier

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE ARMY SOMETIMES PERFORMS some odd antics! Here's the case of ex-Pvt. Mathew C. Regan, formerly of 106 East Newton st., Boston, and now an inmate in the Bedford mental hospital for veterans. He is being treated for non-violent insanity from a skull fracture incurred by a jeep accident at Camp Bradford, Va., on Oct. 10, 1943. The man's memory and reason is gone!

Austen Lake

On June 1 his wife, Mrs. Bessie Regan, trying to support herself and two small children on a $12-a-week waitress job, received a dun under a Veterans' Administration letterhead, reading, "Funds are needed by your husband for clothing, smoking articles and incidentals. Kindly forward $30 in the early future so that he may be promptly provided for. (Signed) Winthrop Adams, M. D., Manager."

Mathew Regan is a "Blue Discharge" soldier, which means he was expelled from the Army without honor. His discharge record reads that, at the moment of the accident in which his brain was injured, he "was driving a jeep without authority," although his duty-detail was that of a jeep driver. There are no particulars on how or why he was driving his jeep without authority. There is no record of a court martial. There was no alcohol involved! And obviously he could not testify in his own defense.

They Gave Him the Old Heave-O!

SO THE ARMY JUST CHUCKED him out with a blue ticket and stopped all pay and allowances, including his $100 monthly allotment to his wife and kids. To be sure they put him in a series of government mental hospitals. But the Army gets no credit for that bit of business, since a large annual slice of all taxpayer's money goes to support public mental asylums for any indigent lunatic, whether soldier or civilian. That's SOP, or standard order of procedure!

So, although Regan was incompetent, he signed his own Blue Discharge, with no understanding of what it meant and no memory of having done so. He doesn't even remember the jeep wreck, and thus has no means of self defense. His record merely reads, cryptically, that his injuries were received "Not in the line of duty, but NOT due to his own misconduct." That is all! Otherwise his conduct in a year and four months of soldiering was solid. His character was good!

Yet he was summarily kicked out "without honor" and, although permanently disabled, his pay was abruptly stopped. That's pretty stiff punishment for taking a jeep ride "without authority." For had Regan not been injured, the worst he could have received at Army disciplinary hands was a Special Court martial on a trivial charge and a mild penalty of confinement to camp or loss of a month's pay. Indeed, he might have gone scot-free! He might have had a sound explanation for using the jeep WITHIN the line of duty. We'll never know, since the facts are locked up in the man's demented mind.

So here is another of those many border line cases where the Army callously tosses a soldier back into the public pool and pastes on a permanent label "without honor." What is irritating is the careless manner with which these rear-area desk officers toss off severe sentences and Blue and Yellow discharge tickets to veteran soldiers for comparatively minor offenses, which logically call for nothing more drastic than a reprimand. Why, hell, if they fired out all jeep drivers who take "unauthorized rides," there wouldn't be any jeep drivers in the Army. And here's a case where the guy couldn't even testify in his own defense.

They Also Spent His Back Pay!

THERE ARE THREE TYPES OF ARMY discharges, (1) "Honorable," printed on white paper, (2) "Without Honor" on blue, (3) "Dishonorable" on yellow. The last two are perpetual blights on a man's character in post-war public life. As such they should be given with utmost caution and only for serious offenses. Discipline is one thing. Dictatorial whimsy is another. For while no one will champion a chronic crook or habitual mischief, whether in uniform or out, every soldier deserves the same gentle benefits of reasonable doubt as any civilian suspect.

When Regan came to Bedford from Walter Reed hospital he had $124 in back pay, a sum which was "placed to his account" at the hospital and withdrawn by the authorities to provide him with clothes, cigarets and "incidentals." That money, Dr. Adams tells me, is all used up now ,which is why the hospital asks Mrs. Regan to send $30 so that ex-Pvt. Regan "may be promptly provided for." Presumably if she sent the 30 plasters, which of course she can scarcely afford out of her weekly $12 pay, there would be periodic requests for like sums, and so on ad infinitum.

However, Dr. Adams explaines that the dun-letter was merely a "feeler" and, if Mrs. Regan doesn't have the dough, Mathew will get his "incidentals" at government expense—though probably not lavishly. Well, Mrs. Regan hasn't got that kind of scratch! So that's that! Neither is she and her two kids eating, dressing and living on the plush side, through no fault of theirs and due merely to Fate's mischancy spin of the dice and a hard-boiled set of Army bureaucrats!

I submit that the Army still has an obligation to ex-Pvt. Mathew Regan and this government has a responsibility toward his family which cannot be severed abruptly by issuance of a Blue Discharge on the whim of some brass hat in the JAG's office. I don't think ex-Pvt. Regan had a fair shake, and I ask the Veteran's Administration to review his case with a view to restoring his Honor in the service of his country and to grant his family reasonable compensation in back pay.

Demented or sane, ex-Pvt. Regan should still be listed on Army rolls and his wife should not be harassed by duns to keep him in "clothes, smoking articles and incidentals." I trust you will agree that sometimes the greater lunacy is on the side of the Army.

Braves, Giants Game Off

By BILL GRIMES

After breaking even on a 16-game road trip, a feat no other Eastern Club accomplished, the Braves arrived home this morning from Philadelphia, where they knocked off the Blue Jays four times in 24 hours.

The Colemen were to open a three-day four-game seres with the New York Giants this afternoon, but rain called a halt to activities. The Tribe has had trouble with the Ottmen this spring, having been on the losing end of six out of seven contests.

Al Javery

Bob Logan, a left hander, who knows what it's all about, will be on the hilltop for the Braves tomorrow.

On his only start at home Logan took the measure of the St. Louis Cardinals. He was the victim of some dumb baseball on the part of his mates when he relieved Nate Andrews in Pittsburgh and lost the verdict to the Pirates, after pitching six rounds the previous night.

He started against the Cards in St. Louis and although he gave nine hits, only two runs crossed the plate during the eight rounds he was in action. He was lifted for a pinch hitter and large John Hutchings was beaten in the 12th by a Ray Sanders homerun. Logan made his fourth start in Chicago and beat the Cubs.

Manager Ott will send either Harry Feldman or Andy Hansen against the Braves tomorrow, Feldman started the first game the Braves played in the Polo Grounds this season. But, he wasn't around at the finish. However, soon after he departed the Giants came up with two big innings in which they scored a total of 14 runs. Hansen has started two games against the Colemen. In the first, at Braves Field, he was lifted for a pinch hitter with the Giants trailing 0 to 1 with one down in the eighth. Then, the Ottmen went to work on "Red" Barrett and popped up with four runs. And, in New York, Hansen battled to a seven round draw with Al Javery.

Althkough there is some question if Dick Culler will be back at shortstop, Manager Coleman stated definitely that "Chuck" Workman will replace "Butch" Nieman in the outfield.

During the first three weeks of the season, Nieman made the headlines throughout the country by his timely and sensational slugging. He was an even .400 when the Braves took their stand to repel the first invasion of the western clubs.

During the last home stay "Butch" batted for a mere .158 but that mark was just 25 percentage points higher than he compiled on this trip. He is currently hitting for .241. It's unbelievable that "Butch" Nieman could not get more than a dozen hits on his last 83 times at bat. But, he didn't. So, he'll sweat it out on the bench until he recovers his batting eye.

Culler pulled his arm again yesterday. As was the case when he first injured his whip in Pittsburgh, Culler was the middleman on a fast double play. Possibly, it was too much of a strain for Culler's arm to play a twi-night Wednesday and go back into action at 1:30 the next afternoon.

His arm pained all Wednesday night. So, he got little sleep and his arm let go in the third inning of the first game yesterday. He believes he'll be all right but Bob Coleman will decide whether Culler will play this afternoon.

The Braves' pitching staff is shot to pieces. Al Javery, who was told by Dr. Robert F. Hyland that three X-ray treatments would make his arm as good as ever (it was a great one in its heyday), pitched batting practice yesterday and wasn't able to put a thing on the ball. He may be all through. With Javery ailing and Nate Andrews A.W.O.L., Jim Tobin is the lone survivor of the big four that started the season.

Mort Cooper, who won two games for the Braves will make his home debut in the opening game of Sunday's double-header.

Bulletin

Wet grounds caused the postponement of today's game between the Braves and Giants scheduled for Braves Field this afternoon. The teams will open their series with a single tilt tomorrow and then play a doubleheader Sunday.

Sox Reach for AL Lead in N.Y.

By HUCK FINNEGAN

The Red Sox were in New York today to open a four-game series with the Yankees, but the echoes of their Thursday celebration were still reverberating around Johnny Orlando's clubhouse. "Glorious, glorious only a bottle of beer between the four of us," they sang after sweeping the three-game series with the A's. "That makes up for the trio they took from us earlier in the season. Now, if we can take four from the Yanks we'll be in first place. We've got a score to even with them too."

The Sox were merry as they took off for New York. The Yanks, like the A's, took three straight from them at the season's start.

"Thank the Lord there are no more of us," went on the refrain, "for one of us could drink it all alone."

"I'll buy beer for the whole gang Sunday night," harmonized Cronin, "if you take three of four from the Yanks."

It's hard to believe, but the Sox, after losing eight games in a row in April, are in fourth place, only three games off the top. That means if they infiltrate smartly on the week-end they'll wind up in first place.

They come home, on May 23, in the cellar. Since then they have won 13 games, lost only five, to reach the stratosphere.

Who's been responsible? Ferriss, mostly. Ever since the kid joined the club he has kept them on their toes. But the Indian (Johnson) and Ben Steiner have helped a lot, too. Look at the batting records of the Sox since they started to eat their home cooking in Chinatown.

Here is the list, times at bat, hits, RBI and batting averages: Culberson 34-9-1—.236; Steiner 73-26-9—.356; Tobin 59-13-7—.220; Johnson 66-25-15—.379; Fox 50-12-6—.240; Metko 58-17-10—.293; Lake 47-15-3—.319; Ferriss 19-7-3—.368; Newsome 18-5-1—.279; Garbark 45-13-5—.289; McBride 53-15-6—.282 and good old Johnny Lazor, hitting here and there and mostly here 18-10-3—.555.

Garbark's single in the 10th with the bases loaded and with the infield and outfield drawn in gave the Sox a 5-4 decision in their last home game. Garbark's been doing well for a Johnny-come-lately.

But the Indian, Johnson, had driven in three runs previously, two with his seventh home run of the year. (He's made three since the Sox came home.)

He's the "difference," as he's been all season. The difference between victory and defeat. He's never been in a World Series; neither has freshman Ferriss. Is it too much to wonder?

★ ★ ★

Sox crowding the top and only one writer with them . . . Fans still want Lazor in the lineup . . . Ferriss pitches Sunday, and 80,000 will be there. He's the best drawing card in the league. When Hughson was winning 22 games in '42 and Pesky was runner-up to Williams for the batting title, the Sox were kind enough to give them a bonus over their $3500 salary. Hope they do the same with Ferriss . . . Fox isn't hitting but he's still smart. His hit-and-run single through the hole at short in the 10th sent Johnson to third with the winning run. Previously he had tied the game with a double off the fence to score McBride in the seventh.

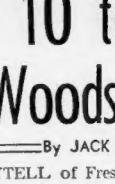
Lytell 10 to 7 Choice Over Woods at Garden

By JACK CONWAY

BERT LYTELL of Fresno, Cal., will go shooting for the fistic heights once more when he clashes with Walter "Pop-eye" Woods in the feature 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight. The young men who make the betting odds are quoting Lytell at 10 to 7 to win.

Lytell and Woods will be battling for the right to meet Jake LaMotta when they begin tossing leather. LaMotta has already agreed to come to Boston to battle the winner of the Garden tussle.



"Pop-eye" Woods

Lytell will pit his speed, southpaw style and boxing skill against Woods' devastating right hand punch. Bert has a boxing style all his own. It was good enough to give LaMotta a real scare in their recent bout here. While LaMotta won the decision, and personally I thought the verdict was correct, there were several thousand fans who witnessed the skirmish who held stoutly to the opinion that Lytell was out front on points.

Going into the last round the going was even. LaMotta then edged his way to victory. Previously Lytell had displayed impressive boxing skill against Henry Chemel.

Woods is a boxing character. He is likely to do most anything once the gong sounds.

Woods belts well with his right duke, and if he is able to land this sock on the elusive Lytell he will have a chance of winning. On form, however, one must string along with Lytell. He is not only fast and a good boxer, but he also makes few false moves in the ring.

Rudy Richardson of New York will oppose Buster Peake of Detroit in the eight round semi-final, while there will also be three six-round bouts.

Bulletin

Walter "Pop-Eye" Woods, at 162 pounds, had a five-pound edge on Bert Lytell for their 10-round meeting at the Boston Garden tonight.

Suffolk Track Fit

I DROPPED in at Suffolk Downs and found that the track is in excellent condition for the opening of the 54-day meeting on Monday. Joe Tomasello, who was named track superintendent on the death of Harry Hayes, has been working on the track for two months, and he says that with a fair break from the weather man that the racing surface will be fast and in the best possible condition for Monday's opening.

Allan Wilson was moving around the big racing plant making certain everything was set. Wilson has had a new office built on the corner of the roood of the clubhouse. This will give him and Treasurer Eddie Goodde a perfect view of the races. As president of Suffolk Downs, Wilson will have many business matters to care for, but he will also keep close to the racing end of the program. Allan has owned show horses, trotters and pacers and also runners, and is versed in every angle of the racing game.

Charley McLennan and Eben Pons were going through entries. They expect to have 14 starters in the Governor's Handicap which will be the feature of the opening day's card.

Frank Ryan, director of public relations, was in his office caring for the many duties that confront his department at the opening of a race track.

There are more than 400 horses on the grounds, and by Sunday it is expected there will be 1000 horses in the barns.

Expect Big Meeting

ALLAN WILSON looks for a successful meeting. He believes that the racing boom will continue through 1945. The huge betting at Narragansett Park and at other race tracks indicates that the public still has plenty of money and that it intends to keep trying to pick winners.

Governor Tobin will attend the opening and he will witness the running of the Governor's Handicap from the stewards' stand.

Clem Hausmann Faces Yankees

NEW YORK, June 8—The Red Sox, with a three-game winning streak, opened a four-game set with the Yaankees today before a crowd of 10,000.

Clem Hausmann started on the hill for the Croninmen against Ernie Bonham, who hasn't won a game this season and has lost four.

With Johnny Lindell gone into the armed services the Yankees used Russ Derry in center field. Derry, who hit the first of his two grand slam homers against the Sox opening day, batted fifth.

Bob Garbark, Sox backstop, was nursing a bad left leg and Fred Walters did the backstopping for the Sox.

FIRST INNING

RED SOX—Lake flied to Martin. Steiner flied to Derry. Metkovich struck out. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Stirnweiss flied to McBride, Metheny lined to R. Johnson. Martin flied to R. Johnson. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

RED SOX—Johnson lined to Crosetti. Fox popped to Etten. Tobin fanned. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Etten walked. Derry singled, Etten stopping at second. Grimes sacrificed. Hausmann to Steiner who covered first. Crosetti was intentionally passed filling the bases. Garbark flied to Fox. Bonham singled, Etten and Derry scoring and Crosetti moving to third. Stirnweiss flied to Fox. TWO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

RED SOX—McBride fouled to Etten. Walters singled. Hausmann flied to Derry. Lake flied to Derry. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Metheny and Martin went out, Metkovich to Hausmann, who covered first. Etten walked. Derry fouled to Walters. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

RED SOX—Steiner flied to Martin. Metkovich singled. Johnson forced Metkovich, Grimes to Stirnweiss. Fox singled. Stirnweiss threw out Tobin. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Grimes doubled. Steiner threw out Crosetti, Grimes holding second. Garbark singled, Grimes moving to third. Grimes scored as Hausmann tossed out Bonham. Lake threw out Stirnweiss. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING

RED SOX—McBride grounded to Etten. Walters struck out. Hausmann fouled to Etten. NO RUNS.

YANKEES—Metheny lined to Steiner. Martin popped to Steiner. Etten was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

Gainsborough, Great Thoroughbred, Dead

NEWBURY, England, June 8 (AP) — Gainsborough, famous thoroughbred whose offspring won more than one million dollars, died at the age of 30, at his birthplace, Harwood Stud.

Gainsborough was triple crown winner of 1918 and the first English Derby winner owned by a woman, the late Lady James Douglas, who bred him.

One Filly Among 16 Entries for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 8 (AP)—Sixteen 3-year-olds, including one filly and two geldings, today were listed as probable starters in the 71st Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs tomorrow.

With the entry box still open, the names of all the expected nominees were in. The only change from yesterday's probable field was the definite withdrawal of H. C. Hatch's Fair Jester as continued rains threatened to make the going heavy for the first time since 1929.

If all race the starter at 5:15 p. m. Central War Time, tomorrow, it will be the richest Derby in history with a gross value of $86,875, of which the winner will receive a net of $64,850.

There is a possibility that one or two will not start unless the track is in better shape than it was today after 36 hours of rain.

E. R. Bradley's Burning Dream was one of the question marks, with the final decision to be made by the 85-year-old turfman himself. Kenilworth Lad, from Tom Graham's Kenilworth Farm, also may not start if the racing strip is unusually heavy.

Hoop, Jr., backed by his sensational mile and one-eighth workout of Wednesday, was made the 5-to-2 favorite by the track handicapper. Jeep and Pot O'-Luck were quoted at 4 to 1 each, Darby Dieppe at 6-1, Fighting Step, Burning Dream and Air Sailor at 10-1, Alexis at 12-1, and Sea Swallow at 15-1. The others were rated distinct outsiders.

An hour after the usal closing, the books were shut down without any additional nominees.

In the draw for post positions, Arthur Rose's Miswect, only filly in the race, drew No. 1, with C. S. Howard's Sea Swallow in the No. 2 stall. The favored third and fourth stalls were drawn by Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep and the Jimmy Bank's Foreign Agent, respectively. Hoop Jr. landed on the outside in No. 12.

Other post positions outside of the first four spots in order were Air Sailor, Burning Dream, Pot O' Luck, Tiger Rebel, Darby Dieppe, Bymeabond, Alexis, Hoop Jr., Fighting Step, Bert G., Jacobe and Kenilworth Lad.

JOYCE ON SHORT END

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—In spite of victories over Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., twice in three previous meetings, Willie Joyce, Gary, Ind., veteran, will be a 9-5 underdog tonight when he meets the N. B. A. lightweight champion in a 10-round feature bout at Madison Sq. Garden.

Haverhill Prefers Essex Loop Title

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Haverhill High School's baseball squad voted its preference for the Essex County League championship—to be determined tomorrow at Lawrence—over a chance to become the Eastern State titlist and immediately following the verbal ballot, little Walpole very emphatically seconded and approved the move.

Possibly, Haverhill saw the handwriting on the wall for the team bowed out of the Schoolboy Writers' Association tournament very ingloriously.

Haverhill attempted to finesse at Braves Field in its opening tourney game with Walpole. The finesse backfired right in its face but there's a strong possibility that a straight-away play would have followed along the same pattern. At least, that was the general consensus when the fans got a peek at the nifty twirling of Al Meau, clean-up batter and top-moundsman on the undefeated Walpole nine (11-0).

Coach Charlie White moved off a tough spot very nicely when he held a vote as to who would take the mound against Walpole. The boys had their choice of sending ace Al Emilio into the tourney or saving him for tomorrow. The Haverhill club voted in favor of pitcher Abe Vitkauskas, sending Emilio to center field, and then the boys proceeded to put on a weird fielding exhibition behind their mound choice.

It's very doubtful if Haverhill would have done any better behind Emilio. He'd have had to have been extra sharp to match the twirling effort of Meau who set down the Haverhill stickers in order—with the assistance of two nifty twin killings—for six of the nine innings. He would have had a shutout but for a pop fly misjudged and lost in the sun that went for a triple.

As things now stand, Medford and Coyle high will clash in the opener of the semi-final round with Walpole and Milton, winner over Boston English, battling it out for the other finals berth.

The site, however, is still up in the air. Temporary plans call for the semi-finals to be held at Braves Field Monday but in the event that the Braves are rained out meanwhile, the Allston st. grounds won't be available. That would leave the possibility of playing one semi-final as a twilight game Monday after the Braves' game is over and the other at the same time on Tuesday. A twilight game Friday would wind up the title series.

There is still the possibility that the remainder of the games will be played at Fenway Park. If it's clear Sunday, work will begin immediately to remove special stands that have been erected for the Holy Hour for Men Sunday. When these stands are taken down, the schoolboys will be able to pick up with a choice of dates in the Yawkey yard.

Once again, the entire plan of the tourney will depend on the weatherman.

Sun Stream Wins Classic

NEWMARKET, England, June 8 (AP)—Lord Derby's heavily-backed Sun Stream won the Oaks, one of England's five classic horse races, today. The contest is restricted to three-year-old Derbies and is a prelude to the famed Derby, which highlights tomorrow's program.

The winner went to the post as the 6 to 4 favorite but had a close call in defending her rating as the country's outstanding filly. She swept home less than a head in front of the Ag Khan's Naishapur.

Sun Stream, by Hyperion out of Drift, was clocked in 2:30 and earned $13,000 for her owner.

Gordon Richards, Britain's long-time champion jockey, was third aboard Mrs. M. Buchanan's Solar Princess.

Thirteen runners started and the finish was so close that it was minutes before the crowd knew officially which of the two leaders actually won, Solar Princess, leading as the field started home, was less than a length in back for third.

Riddle Leaves To Join Reds

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 8 (AP)—Elmer Riddle, Cincinnati pitcher, who has been troubled with an ailing arm, is en route to Chicago to join the Reds.

Riddle said he planned to stay with the club for at least a month to give his arm another try in the majors. He underwent an arm operation last year.

He made arrangements to join the club in Chicago in a telephone conversation with Warren Giles, Cincinnati club general manager. Riddle has been working out for several weeks with Army nines at Ft. Benning.

New Sliding Scale Tax Bill Passed by House

A bill establishing a new sliding scale of taxes on the "handles" at race tracks was engrossed today by the Massachusetts House with an emergency preamble that would make it operative immediately if it passes the Senate and is signed by the Governor.

The present state tax on race track handles is 3½ per cent on the total amount wagered.

The bill engrossed today would set rates ranging upward from 3½ to 8 per cent, depending upon the amount bet.

Rep. Henry L. Shattuck (R.) of Boston, on whose motion the bill was withdrawn from a number of race tracks bills referred to a recess committee for further study, said that the new rates would bring an additional $2,000,000 annually to the State.

The state collected more than $6,000,000 in racing revenues in 1944.

Roslindale Takes On Navy Yard

The Navy Yard A. A., kingpins in the Park loop, come back tonight meeting the Roslindale T. T. at Fallon Field in an attempt to duplicate their 5 to 0 win last night over the McCarthy Club, when big George Ryan limited the McCarthy's to two scattered hits and helped himself to a lusty double.

The Hal Croshy Club travels to the South Boston Stadium in the other scheduled game to meet the Bill Benson coached Linehan Club.

TODAY'S ROLL OF HONOR

"... Greatness appears in every hour; it rises from the gloom on wings resplendent with a bitter loss. Nothing is now of pettiness or dross, but steadfast, silent payment, Freedom's price, a resolution overmastering doom, and warrior's crown of infinite sacrifice." —(Gorell.)

The Navy Department today announced, through the Office of War Information, the names of 29 CASUALTIES of the Navy and Marine Corps residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The casualties include 11 DEAD, 14 WOUNDED IN ACTION and FOUR MISSING IN ACTION.

The War Department, also through OWI, announced the names of FIVE CASUALTIES of the European and Pacific regions and 147 LIBERATED PRISONERS residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

Next of kin in all cases have been kept informed directly by the Navy or War Department of any change in status. In case of divergence between this list and information sent to next of kin, the last telegram or letter from the Navy or War Department to next of kin is the final authority on the status of a sailor or soldier.
